Year set us on our ROAD TO THE FUTURE

We came from many places, from a variety of backgrounds, from dozens of ethnic and cultural groups. Some had lived in Tempe for many years and had known fellow students from earlier grades in school. Others were products of our restless society which finds people moving from one part of the country to another with surprising frequency. They had been here only a few years. Still others had been in the Tempe District just a few months, weeks or even days.

But no matter where we came from or how long we had been here, this year found us all together at Tempe High, each, individually and collectively, moving through the educational process in all its diversity, heading down the road to our future.

This was but one part of our road, but one which promises to play a significant role in what we become, where we go, which specific branch of that ROAD TO THE FUTURE that we choose for ourselves.

Spirit! The Homecoming bonfire brought out students to demonstrate their support for the football team in its efforts the next night. Or, they just wanted to have fun playing musical chairs.

This is how it's done. Using the overhead projector, Math teacher Steve Walters illustrates the method of solving a particularly vexing problem.

I'm an individual! The Punk look was only one of the styles of dress worn by Tempe High students to show their individuality. Modeling hair styles were Sophomores Lori Lopez and Joanne Dickman.

Studying was main activity on our ROAD

Studying. Learning to think. Understanding what this world is all about. Discovering new ways to do things, to look at ourselves and at others. No matter what year we were in, no matter what our intersts were, no matter what classes we took, we found the bulk of our time during the year was spent studying, either in class or out.

It became obvious as early report cards were issued that the only way to learn what we were supposed to was to study, to work at the serious business of becoming educated.

What was that word? Junior Sandy Fanjoy searches her notes for the last time on her way to a class where she must take a test.

That should do it. Junior Sara Colli is happy with the paper she has finished.

What next? Senior Frank Dukepoo wonders how to improve the drawing he is working on in his art class.

So that's how it works! Junior Lynn Kumelski looks pleased as she begins to understand a difficult concept.

Hurry, before the bell rings! Students in a class held in the Lecture Hall try to get the assignment done before the class ends so there will be no homework to lug home and struggle with at night.

In the classroom.....

Classroom activities were as varied as were the classes we took. Each teacher was different, each subject was different. But we soon learned to accommodate ourselves to the idiosyncrasies of our teachers.

If I can just make them understand! Working on getting a concept across to her classmates is Freshman Jill Beatty.

Only one more time. Senior Raul Rivera works out in the weight room during his P.E. class.

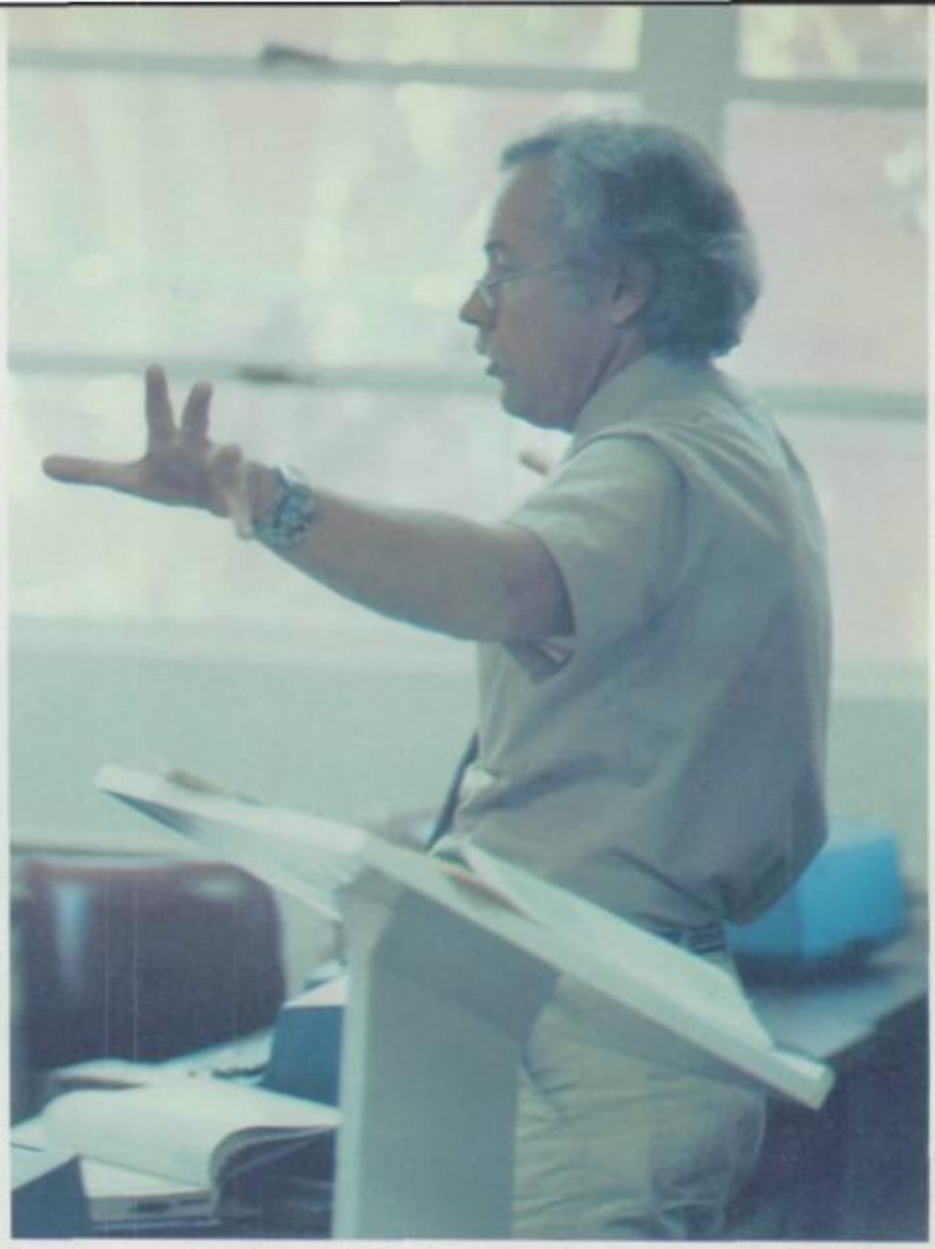
I'm sure that's it. Senior Janet Myers listens and appears to understand during a classroom lecture.



Don't use this hand. Gesturing for emphasis, Dr. Gary Hall instructs a class in the use of business machines.

Is that right? Freshman Elita Washington checks her work in a typing class.

That has to be right. Freshmen Terry Overby and Chris Bayer seem pleased with their answers as they work on an assignment.

Does he understand? Listening intently to a student's question is chemistry teacher Leo Wood.

What does that question really mean? Trying to recall all of the data as she takes a test is Sophomore Dina Giacoletti.

Oh, I'm sure! Listening to a teacher with varying reactions are Junior Hannah Dubie, Sophomore Emilie Halladay and Junior Tammy Jackson.

This is how it's done. Showing Senior Sean Cartwright the right way is English teacher Pam Davis.

In class.....

Oh, really now! Not being sold by what the teacher is saying is junior Eric Neal.

Dropping the helmet before striking an arc is a student in a beginning welding class.

It's got to be here! Sophomore Lindy Evans searches for that elusive book in the card catalog.

If I can just remember.... Junior Jennifer Martin tries to visualize her subject before drawing in the features on a project for her art class.

This will show it. Setting up a demonstration is science teacher Scott Greenhalgh.

Talking and socializing part of the ROAD

Part of growing up, part of becoming educated, is to learn to get along with other people, to talk with them, to try to understand how they think, what they believe and why they believe it.

We took all of the opportunities offered to talk to anyone and everyone. The subjects discussed covered anything and everything. We were curious and wanted to know. So we asked, we talked, we socialized.

So that's what happened! Sophomores Dina Giacoletti, Tammy O'Dell and Julie Bishop discuss people, places and things at a school dance.

Don't tell anyone else! Freshman Kimberly Jackson walks to her next class unaware of the conversation between Sophomores Sonja and Dee Dee Watson behind her.

Walking to her next class was a happy Sophomore Nikki Apodaca while Sophomores Lori Lopez and Stefanie Miller seemed upset about something.

There's a test? Seniors Jill Robinson, Ray Ussery and Cindy Hadley talk about their first hour class at a morning dance held in the Quad.

You're putting me on! Dressed for Nerd Day, Senior Linda Lieberman won't believe an unseen friend's remarks.

Socializing 'great' at dances

Among the best places to socialize on our trip down the ROAD TO THE FUTURE was a school dance. It was also one of the few places where we could relax, forget our inhibitions and let ourseves go. We could talk, dance to wild rock beats or slow mood songs. Regardless of what was being played, we were having fun. And we were learning. Learning about people and what we must do to get along with them both now and later in our lives.

Do it this way! Senior Verna DeBow (background) seemed happy about the way Senior Leslie Watrous was teaching Senior Eric Norberg a dance step.

Man, that's great! Seemingly lost in a private world, Junior Blaine McCauley danced to a driving beat.

Turn your foot this way. Showing friends how to dance to a favorite song was Freshman Melainie Van Tilborg. Clapping time with the beat was Freshman Dawn Baillie.

This way! Showing others how to boogie with the best of them was Freshman Vicky Kinsley.

Spirit, zeal necessary parts of education

School spirit. It was a necessary part of our journey down the ROAD TO THE FUTURE. It taught us to have pride in ourselves, in our friends and in our accomplishments. It taught us the social importance of belonging, of having friends, and of standing by those friends whether they succeeded or failed in their endeavors.

All together. The three cheer lines do a spectacular mount at a rally.

Backed by pep signs, the Pom Pon line dances to the band at a rally.

Run! Senior Linda Lieberman tries running in high heels during a pep rally class competition.

We're all Buffaloes! The Pom Pon line does a spirited dance.

That's spirit!. Senior Mike Azzi shows his true colors.

Careful, girls! Trying their hand at cheerleading were Sophomores Victor Lamb, T.C. Wright and Dave Robson.

Back in the '50's! Rockin' Pommies Sophomores Bobbye Fraser and Tammy O'Dell show how it used to be done.

Spirit signs! Senior Sharon Hendrix had 'em.

Stick him! Senior Todd Conant stops a Chandler ball carrier near the line with a hard-driving tackle.

We are prepared.....

We have passed through this particular spot on our ROAD TO THE FUTURE. Some of us will go separate ways. Some will be back at Tempe High again next year. But no matter where we go, no matter what we do, no matter what lies in store for us, our time at this particular spot on our individual ROADS was spent in preparation for that uncertain future each of us has.

It was the tests, the trials, the good times and the bad that are chronicled in this book that prepared us for that future.

Studying and talking. Seniors Jeanne Black and Roseann Slater chat with friends during a study session in the library.

Stats! Keeping detailed statistics at all football games were Sophomore Polly Pinder and Junior Kolbie Openshaw.

Teaching never stops. Explaining what the other team's offense was doing, trying to help the Buffalo defense hold them, was a constant chore for defensive coach Carl Harris.

Activities

Homecoming celebrations were 'Forever'

The theme was "Forever" and the Senior Class Council who organized and supervised all of the activities sometimes thought it would take forever to get everything done. Said class Secretary/Treasurer Jane Christiansen, "We really worked hard but it was all worth it. I think everyone who participated in the events we planned had a good time."

Kicking off the weekend's activities was a bonfire on Thursday night designed to promote spirit and unity. Tempe High alumnus and local TV sportscaster Bill Mosley was the master of ceremonies and announced the names of those selected as class attendants.

A breakfast dance in the Quad started the day on Friday morning and got people "psyched up" for the pep rally later in the morning.

Despite the controversy that seems to surface each year, the highlight of the Homecoming Pep Rally was Senior Walk when seniors who had distinguished themselves academically or in activities were recognized in a traditional walk down an aisle created on the Gym floor. The basic requirements were to have a 2.5 or better grade point average, to have been a two year letterman or to be a club officer. Each senior girl was given a flower and escorted by an equally deserving senior boy.

The football game that night had all the thrills any Tempe partisan could ask. Down 21-0 at halftime, the Buffs came back to win in a fourth quarter thriller, 28-21.

During the game's halftime, the traditional parade was held and Aileen Balizado and Gary Tutrone were named Homecoming Queen and King. Said Aileen, "I wasn't expecting it. I was just happy being an attendant."

The semi-formal Homecoming dance was held on Saturday night in a lavishly decorated gym. Said Senior Kim Ordaz, "The decorations were very well done and the dance was a great success."

The Varsity football Buffs show just how tough they really are as they play musical chairs at the Bonfire Rally.

The crowd goes wild after the Buffaloes staged a fourth quarter comeback to overcome a 21-0 deficit and beat the Corona del Sol Aztecs 28-21 at the Homecoming game.

Seniors Danny Wagstaff and Melody Kessler think about how they finally made it to Senior Walk.

Senior Ron Coleman proudly escorts Senior Adina Wollam

Senior Aileen Balizado is crowned 1985 Homecoming Queen by last year's queen Nancy Barriga. Looking on are Senior Attendant Michelle Spencer, last year's king John Fees and Senior Ray Ussery, who was in charge of the halftime activities. Not pictured is 1985 King Gary Tutrone who was in the locker room with the team at halftime.

Junior attendants Flint Craig and Elizabeth Davis show the crowd what a great looking couple they make.

'Go Buffs, Go!' often shouted at pep rallies

Juniors Jim Shinn and Kolbie Openshaw explain what's going to happen next while Senior Tim Newman tries to demonstrate what will take place.

Not all students went. But for those who did, generally the majority of the student body, pep rallies were a time of fun, excitement and a chance to show school and class pride.

Each rally featured some type of skit and a game to pit the classes against each other. The sponsoring Student Council did everything they could to make the events lively and exciting. But, due to teacher complaints, they had to meet demanding deadlines. There were no more pep rallies cutting into third period classes. This year, they ended on time!

Freshman Katy Gallagher said, "They're a lot of fun but they still drag sometimes."

During the Homecoming Pep Rally, a game pitting each class against the other was played. The race got hectic and students got rather excited cheering on their friends as they raced to put on a pair of shoes that fit and run back to the starting line.

Seniors Anita Andrews and Karlene Garrison cheer for the senior section during the class competion yells at the beginning of the pep rally.

Setting a "perfect" example for students to follow during the pep rallies were Harry and Marianne Mitchell, both THS alums and both now teachers at their alma mater.

The Buffalo Marching Band helped make the pep rallies even better with their playing and enthusiastic antics. Though there was no marching for them to do during the rallies, they raised spirit several notches with drum rolls, spirited musical selections and the loudest rooting section in the gym, bar none.

The Varsity Volleyball team was recognized during one of the Pep Rallies as one of the best teams in the league.

Senior Elgin Caldwell shows Seniors Todd Conant and Eric Rhode and the rest of the Varsity football team the techniques of break dancing.

'Hot spots' on Fridays were dances

"May I see your ID, please? Have your ID ready. You can't get in without your ID." A secret conclave of some sort? No, it was just another Tempe High dance. But because they were for Tempe High students, ID's or special guest passes were required for admittance.

Held after most home football games and less often during the Spring semester, the dances in the gym featured a variety of DJ offerings. They were a place to go to unwind after a tough week in class. They were the hot spots on Friday nights for THS students.

As Freshman Paul Bedwei said, "They were fun to go to. The music especialy got you going."

Senior Wendy Silaghi and her date share a quiet moment together on the dance floor.

Sophomore Stephanie Leonard hurries to get the money organized before the long line of students crowds through the door at one of the post-game dances held in the gymnasium.

As the slow music starts, the crowd moves to the floor to dance closely with their favorite partners.

Junior Krissy Otterstedt and Senior Lynn Goggin show that they can do without men, even at a school dance.

Sister City delegates go to Europe

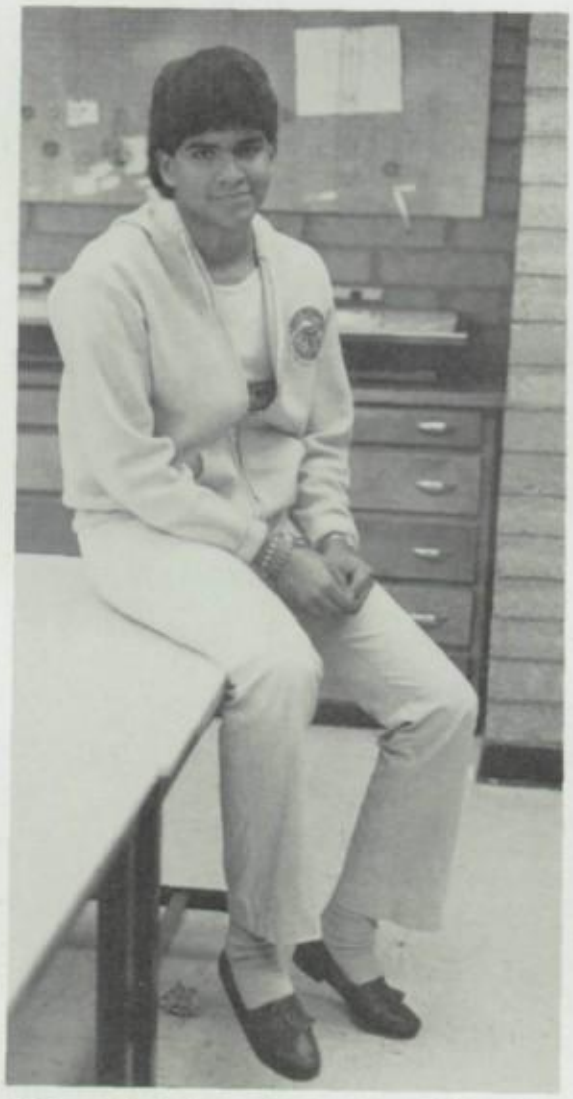
Chosen to represent the city of Tempe as part of the international Sister City program were two girls from Tempe High, Melody Kessler and Amanda Stone. Melody spent six weeks in Regensberg, Germany, while Amanda went to Skopje, Yugoslavia for the same period of time. Both enjoyed themselves and felt that they learned a great deal about people from other cultures.

Visiting Skopje, Yugoslavia, as a part of the Sister City Program was Amanda Stone.

A Sister City visitor to Regensberg, Germany, was Melody Kessler.

Sweden and Panama send students here

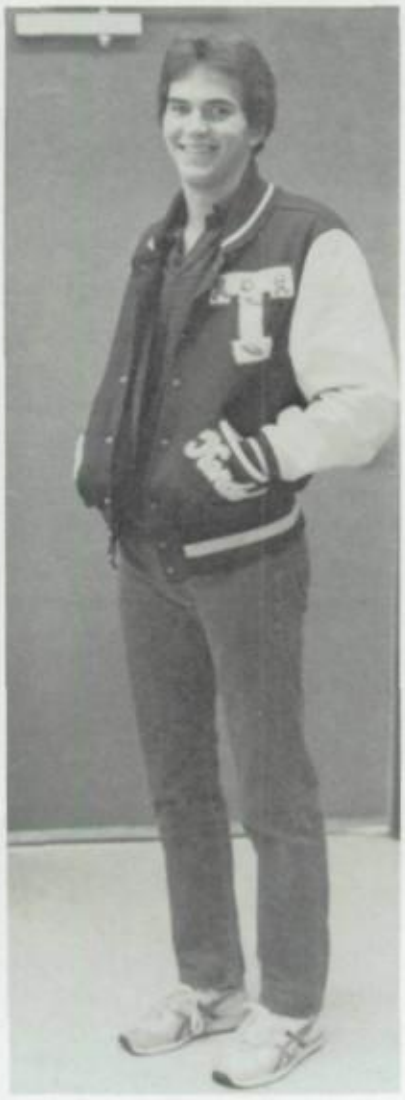
A boy from Panama and a girl from Sweden were foreign exchange change students at Tempe High. Both enjoyed the unique experience. Mike Alencio, the Panamanian said, "This is a great school. I particularly like the way the teachers help."



Miguel Atencio was a Foreign Exchange student from Panama.

Kaisa Lundin came here to study from Sweden.

Mary Carillo from Girls State.



Kendall Fink went to Boys State.

Rick Hernandez was at Boys State.

Luis Mendina was a Boys State representative.

Michelle Spencer was at Girls State.

Karen Livingston was at Girls State.

Politics, government studied first hand by students at camps

Seven Tempe High students spent part of last summer learning about the American system of government first hand at Boys and Girls State.

Three girls traveled to the University of Arizona at Tuscon while four boys headed for the high country and Northern Arizona University at Flagstaff.

At both camps, the students organized miniature states complete with all levels of government found in Arizona. They formed political parties and ran for offices in their mythical cities, counties and state governments.

All of them agreed that the experience was unique and one that helped them to really understand how politics works in this country.

Mistletoe Ball heralds Christmas season

Jointly sponsored by Interact and King's Club, the annual Mistletoe Ball was a welcome reminder that the Christmas holidays would soon be here.

Campus organizations nominated members to serve as King and Queen. Nominees were interviewed by faculty and sponsoring club members. Todd Braver and Debbie Kimberlin were chosen based primarily on their service to both the high school community and the greater Tempe community.

The dance decorations carried out a festive holiday theme. As Interact club president Jane Christiansen said, "It was a great evening and we were able to recognize people that might not otherwise get recognized."

Donkeyball provides laugh-filled evening

It was an hilarious, fun-filled evening for spectators and participants alike. When it was all over, the scores really didn't count. Most agreed that the donkeys had won, hands down.

From the opening whistle, the donkeys proved they were masters of the game. They refused to move, easily dislodged even the most experienced riders, and generally let the world know that they would do what they wanted to do when they wanted to do it.

Riding confidently down the court with the ball securely tucked away was FBLA Forward Senior Eva Gibson. She was followd by Chet Crosby, manager of the donkeys.

Demonstrating a rather unorthodox shooting style, from directly under the basket, was Senior Karen LaBoy who played for FBLA.

Junior Tracey Stokes demonstrates the position of supplication most players found themselves using all night. "Please move."

Coach Carl Harris tries desperately to mount his moving donkey so he can legally pass the ball to a fellow male faculty member.

English teacher Maureen Buffington was in high spirits as she first mounted her donkey (above left). But it was a different story a few minutes later when the donkey, having decided he wanted no more of this foolishness, uncermoniously dumped his rider on her chin. A bit of tape and an ice bag didn't seem to help too much.

Bookstore Manager Becky Soto seems to be begging an unseen teamate, "Here, take the ball while I'm still on this animal."

Reaching unsuccessfully for the rebound after a third straight miss was Business Teacher Marianne Mitchell. Smiling knowingly at her efforts was donkey manager Chet Crosby who takes the animals throughout the country to stage similar games.

Smiling happily because she had just managed to stay on her donkey for a full 30 seconds was Senior Lee Donato. Donkey manager Chet Crosby stands in the background ready to put the ball in play.

Traditional Coronation Ball called success

It was a traditional Coronation Dance...the dress was semi-formal, the girls asked the guys, and most couples went to dinner before arriving at the dance, paid for by the girl.

The gym was gaily decorated, nearly transformed by dozens of streamers, tables and chairs alongside the dance floor, and balloons that came cascading down during the Royalty dance. The official colors of pink, red and white neatly fit into the Valentine's Day theme.

The dance, sponsored by the sophomore class, was pronounced a success by those who attended.

The Coronation King and Queen, the Coronation Attendants and last year 's royalty all dance the special Royalty Dance amid the gently falling balloons.

The new Coronation King and Queen, Joe Haver and Verna DeBow, lead off the special Royalty Dance.

Freshmen Christine Tucker and Anne Longtin fix the tables to look nice while Freshman John Evans supervises.

People at the Coronation Dance get together to enjoy their friends and their dates. It's a chance to dress up, dance to your heart's content, and talk with everyone you know.

Sophomore Dave Robson talks to Sophomore Steve Ford and his date Junior Mary Rosales about where he went for dinner.

Meeting at the podium after being announced, Susanne Boylan and Joe Haver share a warm kiss of Good Luck.

Junior Shad Griffin and Sophomores Sandy Murray and Julie Morrow set up the refreshment stand in the traditional gazebo.

Seniors Rudy Navarrette and Priscilla Mercado relax after a fast dance and talk about how much fun the Coronation Ball really is.

God's Favorite scores big

A Neil Simon play about a New Yorker who tries to maintain his Christian faith in a God who is testing him in a bet with the devil, was the opening play of the year. It ran for three nights before appreciative audiences.

Three of the children of the man chosen as God's favorite human being sit freezing.

Sophomores Bobbye Fraser and Chris Mun demonstrate a unique pose in the dance "Elegia".

Senior Lara Pile in "Resurrected Society" performs with a sheet as a prop.

Showing synchronization are Senior Mary Jo Balabuch and Sophomore Bobby Fraser in the dance, "Time Capsule."

Dionysus fall program earns appreciation, praise for work

An appreciative audience highly acclaimed the Dionysus Fall Dance Concert which was 12 weeks in preparation. Each dance had to be choreograpahed, music selected, costumes decided upon and made, and there was constant rehearsal as the girls learned their parts in several numbers.

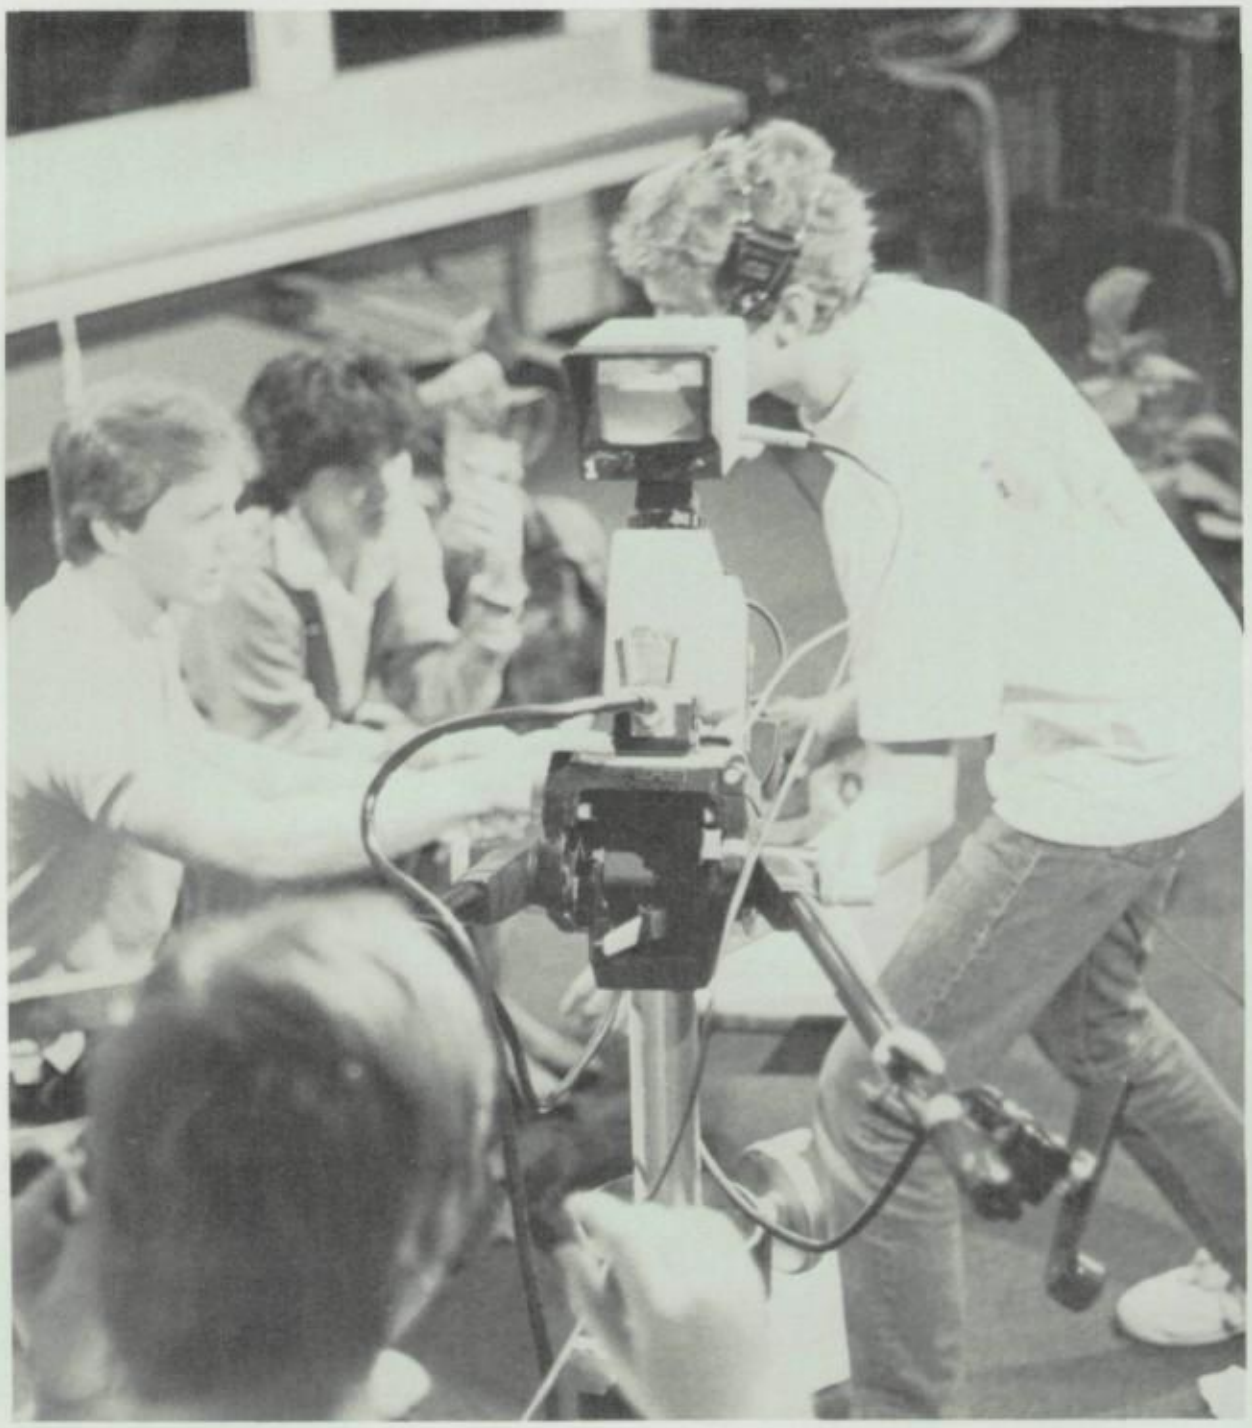
The evening's offerings were highly varied, adequately demonstrating the skill and versatility of this nearly professional company. Sponsor Ms. Darby Heath was highly pleased with the performance.

Senior Rhonda Perlow captures the audience with a stimulating pose. Rhonda choreographed and appeared in the dance, "Resurrected Society."

TV classes air programs on cable network

"You're on the air" took on new meaning for the TV classes as they began presenting a series of programs over the local cable network which reached a large number of Tempe homes. The programs were designed to investigate areas of concern involving teenagers and THS students in particular. Using the format of a panel show, such questions as teen suicide and teen parent relaltionships were discussed both by teenage panel members and by adult authorities in the subject area being considered.

Class members all agreed that meeting the requirements for the shows was a tough, grueling job, particularly when deadlines neared. However, most felt that the work was well worth it.



The TV Production crew goes through the routine check of their sound and camera equipment before they begin taping a show.

At the camera, Freshman Ruth Parker puts on her headphones and prepares to turn on the system.

Junior Marsha Dare, Julie Goldstein, Yvonne Marquez, and Gerry McKnight listen carefully to Mrs. Smith's directions.

Senior Aaron Michler checks the screen and contrast controls.

Junior Henry Esquivias gives directions to the camera man.

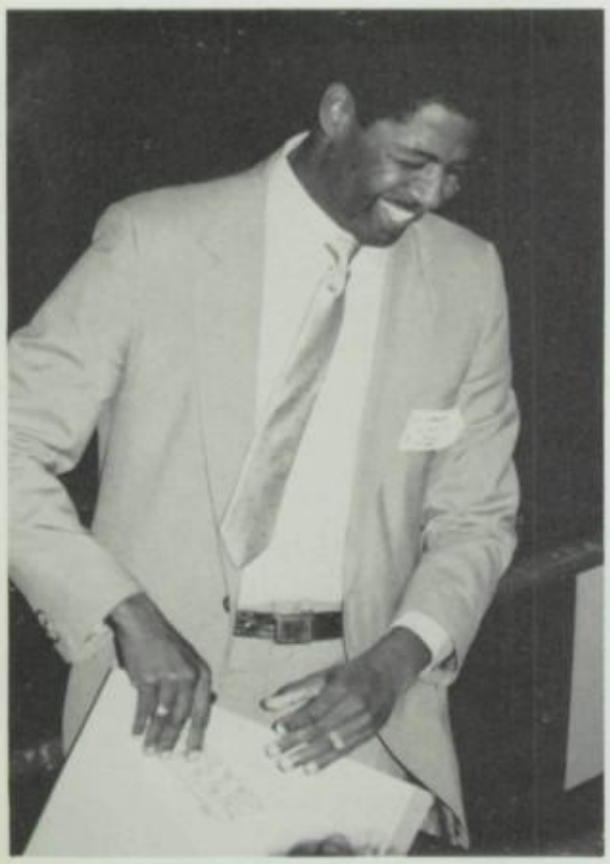
Senior Jason Luhm and Freshman John Evans watch the video screen to insure that the shots are the ones desired.

BSU Career Day emotional, inspirational

It was a day filled with emotion, with information and with inspiration. It was the annual Career Day sponsored by the Black Student Union. The club's guests were BSU members from the other three Tempe high schools and Dobson High in Mesa.

In addition to learning about possible careers in the professions and jobs for the upwardly mobile, the students also saw very successful professionals who were from the minorities whom they could look upon as role models.

A special, rather emotional addition was a series of tributes to Dr. Martin Luther King whose birthday was celebrated as a federal holiday for the first time this year.



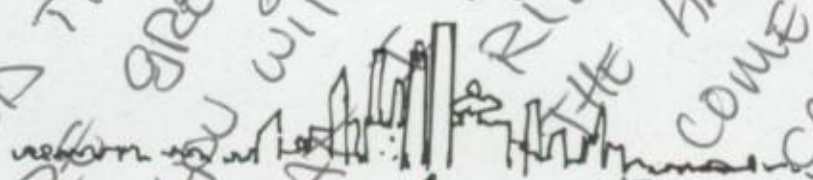
Donald Tarkington, Director of Parks and Recreation for Phoenix, discusses work in the recreation field.

Napoleon Hornbuckle, an engineer with the Tactical Communications Division of Motorola, talks about jobs in the engineering field.

William Bennett, a program evaluator for Arizona from the Governor's office, Essie Parker, Valley National Bank Director of Personnel and Diana Hall, a counselor from Mesa Comunity Col ege, talk to students about careers in the personnel field.

Students from the four Tempe high schools and Dobson High in Mesa listen to speakers during Career Day.

Academics

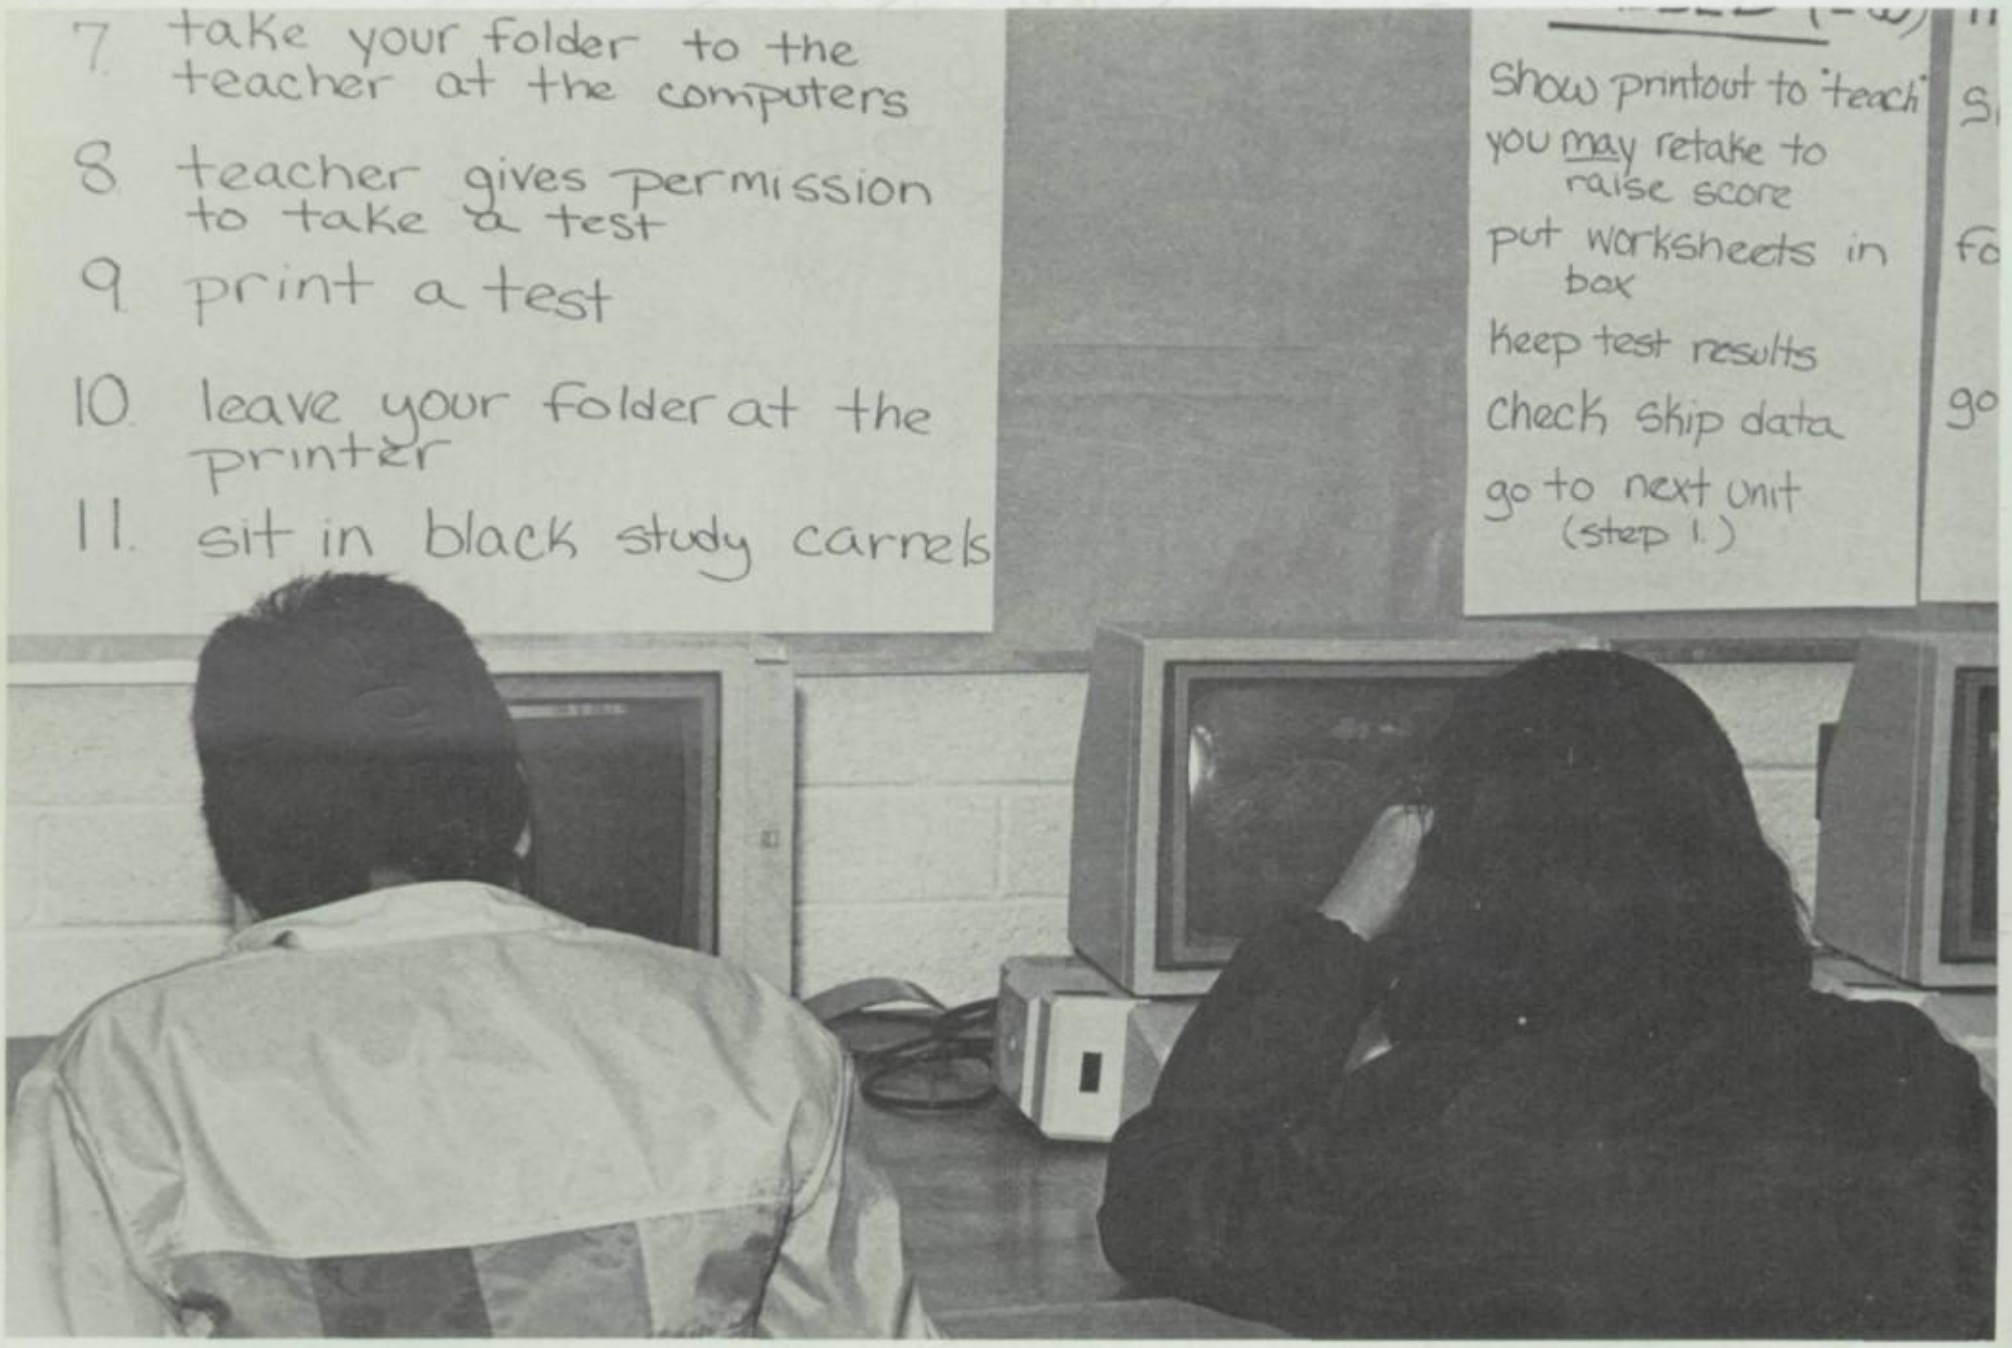


Computers are heavily used by Math classes

Computers and more computers were the word in the Math department as there was an increased emphasis on remedial classes.

Honors and advanced classes also continued working in areas of progr amming and use of higher levels of computer language.

The computer room in the Math department was not new but it was used almost constantly by students from throughout the school. Available were Apple computers and terminals hooked to the District's microcomputer.



7. take your folder to the teacher at the computers
8. teacher gives permission to take a test
9. print a test
10. leave your folder at the printer
11. sit in black study carrels
Show printout to 'teach'
you may retake to raise score put worksheets in box
keep test results
check skip data
go to next unit (step 1.)

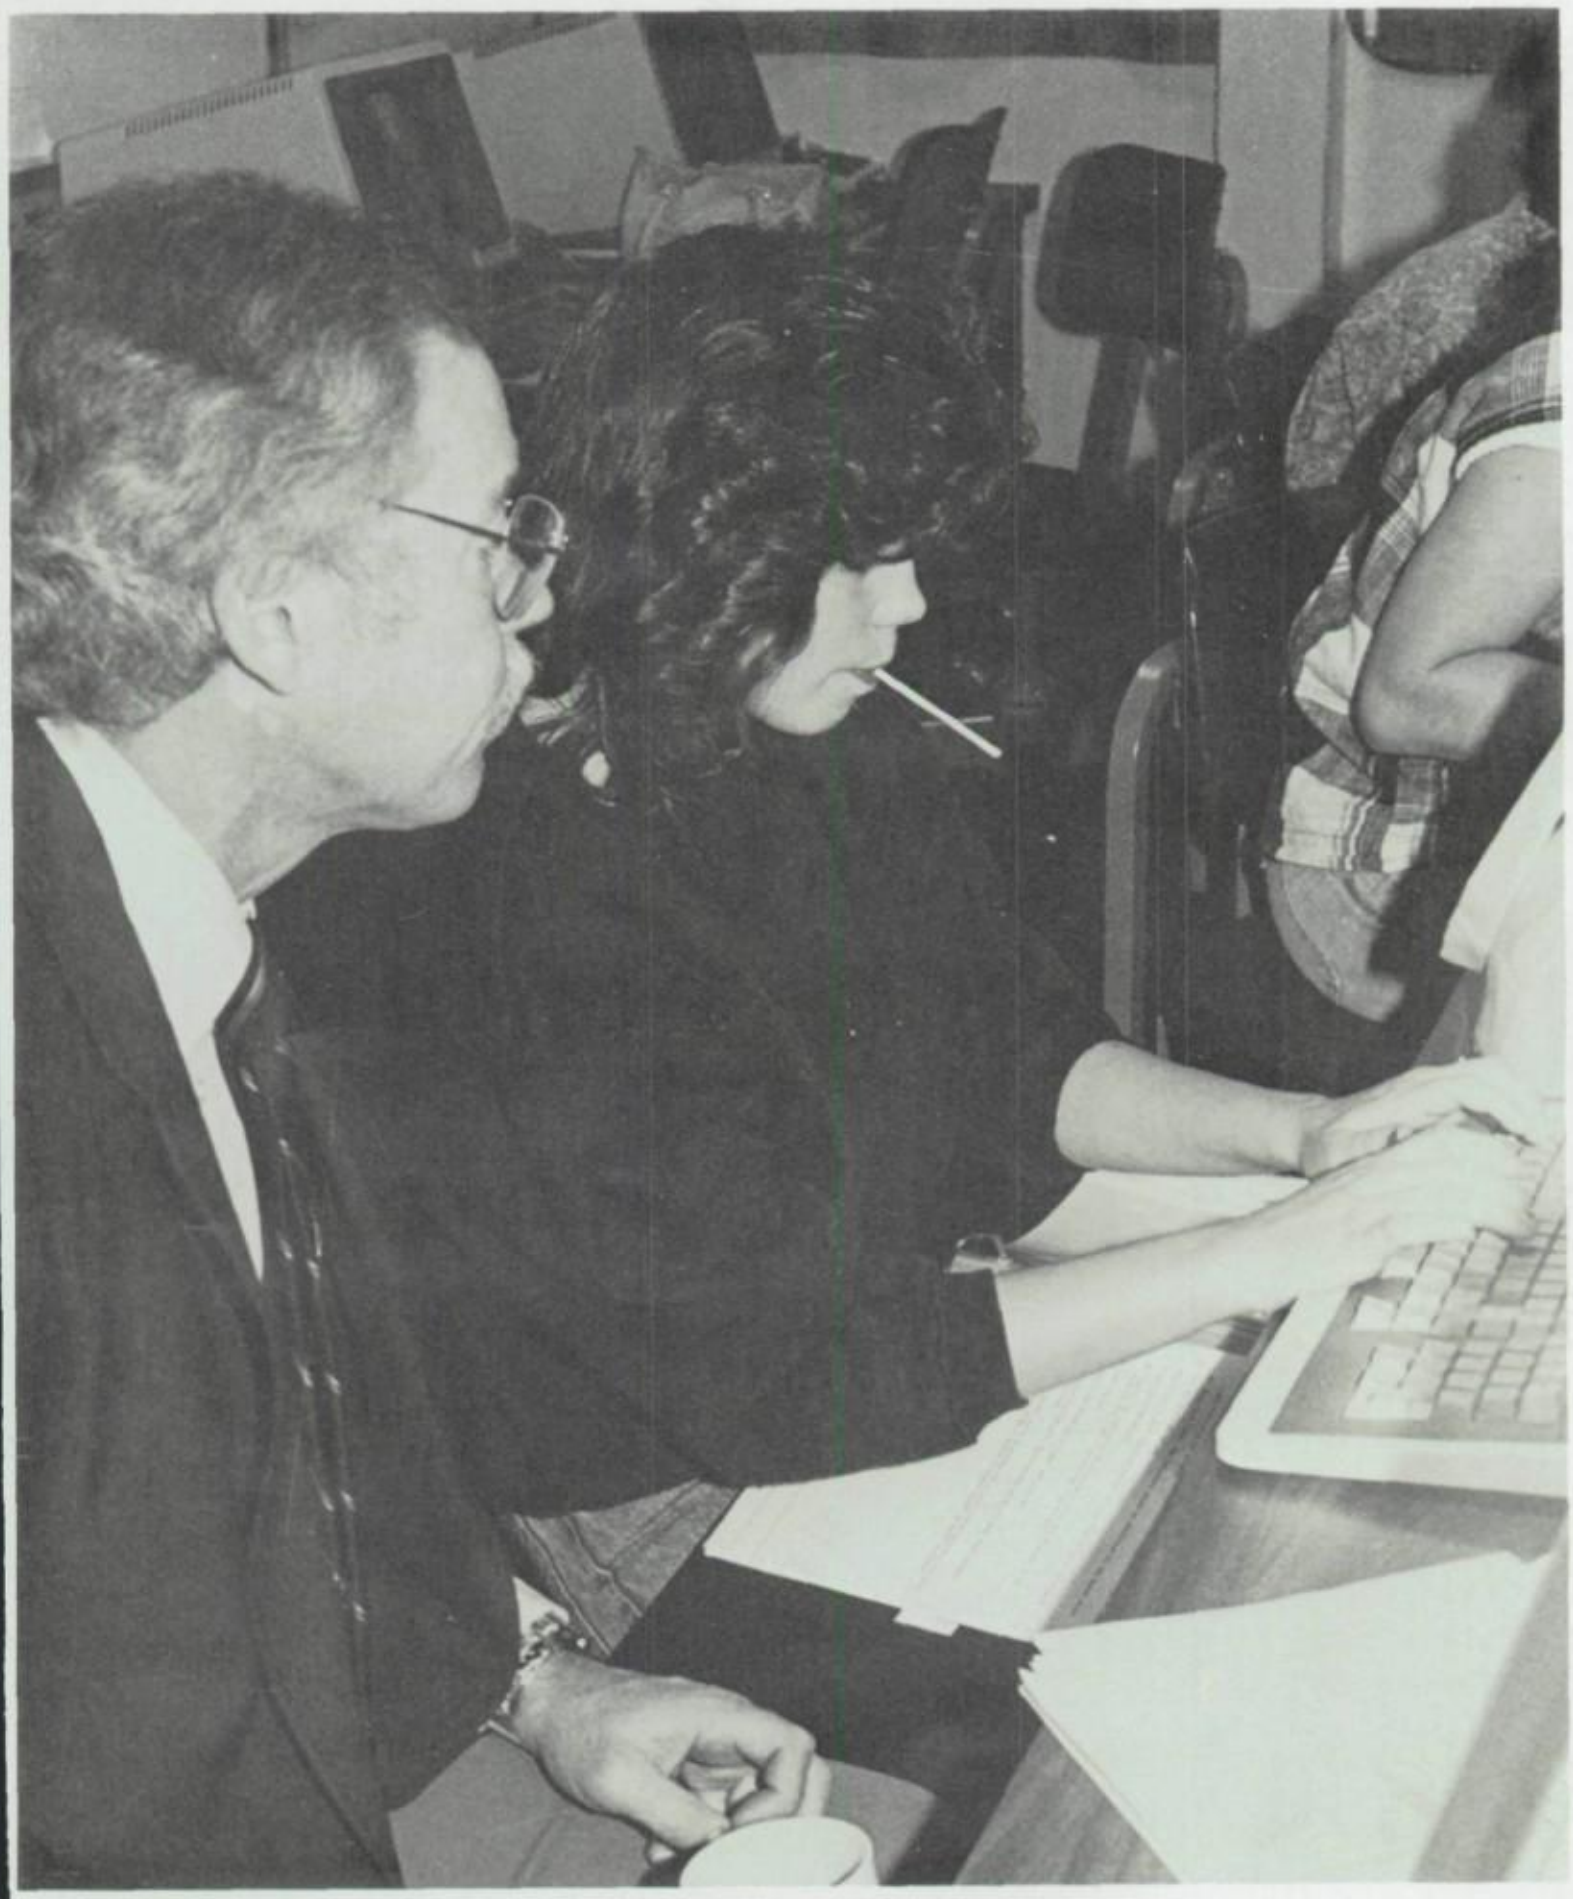
Two students work with the Apple computers in remedial math classes. The computers and the programs available for them helped those deficient in specific areas of math to practice in those areas while relieving the teacher to explain and assist in more complex areas.

Business classes use modern equipment

The Business department continued emphasizing the latest technological advances in office equipment as they strove to prepare their students for the work world many would move into immediately after graduation.

Gone were the days of the IBM office typewriter. In its place were complicated word processors, computers and advanced versions of electric typewriters.

Said Department Chairman Dr. Gary Hall, "It's hard to keep up with everything that 's happening out there, but we're trying. We owe it to our students to see that they are prepared for what they'll find when they go to work, not what was there when we were their age."



Working with one of the newer word processing machines available, Senior Tammi Kennemer s assisted by Department Chairman Dr. Gary Hall.

Remediation, computers highlight changes

Computerization, an emphasis on remedial work and a common curriculum with the other schools in the District highlighted the changes in the English department.

The ubiquitous Apple was the mainstay of a new computer lab designed primarily to help with remediation in basic English. Various computer programs designed to educate while being fun to use, coupled with strong teacher assistance, were the keys to the program. Later in the year, many other English classes found their way to the lab to work on a variety of problems.

Journalism, an adjunct of the English department, also moved strongly forward in the computer department as delivery was taken on an AM Varitype Comp /Edit typesetter. Coupled with the three terminals already in the classroom, the new machine gave the award winning student newspaper, The Buffalo, the ability to typeset, paste up and send their paper to the printer completely "camera ready."

The machine was also used by the yearbook to set all the headlines, cutlines and body copy appearing in this book.

Hard work all summer by a few department members, and a two day workshop before school began, resulted in a common English curriculum for all four of the schools in the Tempe Union High School District for the first time. The first three years of English were now using the same textbooks and were following similar approaches during the year.

Using the typesetter terminals and the Comp/Edit typesetter to get stories ready for paste up in The Buffalo, were Freshmen Anita Verdugo, Ronna Winters, and Buddy Early and Sophomore Missy Pierce.

Assisted by English teacher Mrs. Maryeileen McKersie, students work on the Apple computers with programs designed to help them with problems they are having with the English language. Students using the Apples, all freshmen, were Tina Ballard, Anjie Thompson and Mike Rochon.

Despite the technological advances which allowed the use of computers to help in teaching, there was still a strong need for the traditional student and teacher one-on-one interaction, particularly in literature and writing classes. English teacher Don Benjamin works with Senior Craig Thompson on a literature assignment.

Global Studies required for Class of 1988

Global Studies became a requirement for graduation for the class of '88. The class was designed to make the student aware of the world around him, and of the geographical, social and political influences that caused the problems in today's world.

Global Studies teacher Mr. Shannon Radford explains the similarity between a US geographical location and one in a foreign country to Sophomores Chris Bergan, David McNabb and Mark Sauer.

Science grows in popularity

The Science department continued to grow as all students began meeting the requirement of 2 years of science courses for graduation.

The state universities further complicated the requirement by accepting only biology, chemistry and physics as courses meeting their requirements for admission.

Freshmen James Pauley and Steve Tantana compare reactions and make notes of what they see during a lab experiment in a science class.

Junior Gina Medina can't seem to believe what has happened to her experiment in a science class.

Baby Doll,

Well thanks for saving me a page - Ha Ha. Its real hard to write how I feel about you cuz words just cant express my feelings. Does that make any sense (Im sure you know where Im coming from) You are one special person and you really mean alot to me. Things may not have started out to good for us but all that matters is our friendship now. I really think that we have a one in a million thing going here!!! You have been here for me so many times just to hear me talk about my problems and you always have a way with cheering me up. This year has gone by so fast and we have had alot of downs but we stuck together and worked things out - So Im sure that we will have alot more in the future so lets hang in there Together!!! We have to get together this summer - No matter what. Thanks for everything. You will always be my baby doll!

Love Alice

Baby Doll

Love Ya Lots

Best wishes with you and Rick

Getting there was always half the problem

"Hey! How'ya getting ta' school?" "Can I have a ride?" "Mom, can I borrow the car tomorrow? It's a a special deal?" "You mean I have to ride the bus?"

Such comments begin most days in many households as teenagers try to figure a way to get to school that will be acceptable to their image and to their peers.

Of course, the beg deal is to have a car and drive yourself. Next in line is to know someone who has a car and will drive you. At the bottom, in the pits, is to have Mom drive you and drop you off right in front of your friends.

Those who weren't affluent enough to have a cvar, or, most probably, weren't old enough to have a driver's license and pay for the insurance that goes with wheeling a car around, found other ways of getting where they wanted to go.

There was an entire sub-cul ture of skateboard enthusiasts who used the slippery boards to get most places they had to be.

Bicycles have always been a mainstay of teenage transportation and it was no different here. The bike racks were full most days, even when it rained.

And, of course, if you lived close enough to where you wanted to go, there was always walking. Mom and Dad said it was healthy but your friends knew it was Yucky!

For dates, a car was an absolute necessity. There was no other way unless you wanted your parents to drive you. And who wanted Mom or Dad to drive you to Coronaton?

Junior Chris Dickens thinks about the test he has coming up first hour as he cycles slowly to school in the morning.

Junior Jim Mahoney has no trouble finding a space to park his bicycle.

One of the conveniences of a skateboard is not having to hunt for a parking place.

Freshman LaSean Willis and Junior Dionne Willis are the first off the bus anxious to talk with some friends before school begins.

Senior Leslie Watrous and Sophomores Jennifer Thornberry, LeAnn Hinkle and Gwen James use the cheapest mode of transportation available to get to school....walking.

Freshman Mitch McDonald got a ride to school from his Mom. But now he's late and must rush to class before the tardy bell rings.

A popular form of transportation, particularly among underclassmen, was to hitch a ride with Mom or Dad.

These lunch-time buddies see how many people they can squeeze into their Honda Hatchback.

Finding a parking spot in the side parking lot after lunch was a major accomplishment.

Another popular form of transportation was car pooling which allowed friends to ride to school together.

There are cars on campus that may not cost too much but they have true personalities and the owner just can't bear to give them up.

The Camaro belonging to Mr. Bob Dulinski caught the eye of students as the car they might someday like to own

The Bug belonging to Junior Travis Holland was recognized at many after school events.

Lunch time meant eating, socializing, fun

"It's lunch! What'll we do? Where'll we go?" "Hurry, so we can beat the mob at the cafeteria line!" "Naw, let's not eat in the cafeteria. Let's go to the snack bar and sit outside and see if we can see those cute guys (those cute girls) again!"

No matter who you were, no matter what class you were in, the daily 30 minute break for lunch was looked forward to as a time to relax from the rigors of the classroom. But it certainly was not just a time to eat. A great deal of socializing took place, dates were made and broken, and plans for weekend parties matured.

While the neighboring fast food outlets had their advocates, the majority of the students either ate in the cafeteria, at the cafeteria snack bar or "brown bagged" it. The weather was so great most of the year that the Quad became a huge picnic spot with groups gathered in the shade around the edges.

What did we eat? The typical fast food fare of hamburgers, fries, soft drinks, and hot dogs were the favorites though a surprising number of students opted for yogurt and other "health foods." For desert it was probably some of the candy that was constantly being sold by clubs to raise money.

Heading for the cafeteria with hopes of getting toward the front of the line were Sophomores Elizabeth Nelson, Julie Justice, Julie Celaya, Kelcey Duerst and Jodi Fedorchak.

Freshman Lisa Brant snubs an overture from an unwanted admirer. "Beat it, Creep!"

Freshman John Reid hangs out at a tree waiting for the lunch lines to go down.

Juniors Susan Ditsworth, Heather Cranwell and Jennifer Wilhite stroll around campus during the lunch period.

The Blue Booth was a popular hangout for freshmen at lunch.

Hurrying from class to the cafeteria so they could get in the front of the line were Seniors Tim Caserta and Rene Chandler.

After-school activities offered wide variety

A popular after-school activity in the fall was to head to the football games and cheer on the Buffs.

Sophomores Shana Rothenberg and Julie Bishop do a little socializing after the 3:00 pm bell rang signaling the end of another day of school.

What to do after school? The variety was almost as great as the number of individuals who had to make that decision.

If you were out for a sport, the gym or locker room was your first stop before you were on the field or the court to practice.

Many students, particularly upperclassmen, had jobs and they were off for the work place as soon as they finished the day at school.

"Just foolin' around" had a large number of adherents. Watching the athletes work out or just laying in the grass under a shade tree watching the clouds go by occupied most of the time of these people.

If you belonged to a club, you probably went to the club meeting at least once a week. Students involved in the performing arts either rehearsed or got ready to go somewhere to perform.

Those who had incurred the wrath of a teacher for some infraction of the rules often spent time in that teacher's room. And those who didn't quite understand what was going on were in the classroom looking for help.

A group of students enjoys a bit of free time talking ouside of their classes.

Junior Robert Montanez and Sonny Waddel discuss their evening activities after the 3:00 pm bell.

Senior Nate Sherinian prepares for his evening job at McDonalds.

Freshman David Snodgrass packs up to head home after another day "behind the bars" of the THS locker area.

Challenger tragedy top news story of year

The tragic explosion of the space shuttle Challenger less than two minutes after lift off was the top news story during the school year. Reaction on campus was one of shocked disbelief bordering on despair. The inclusion of a high school teacher in the ill-fated crew made the tragedy all the more personal to the school community.

In late February, President Ferdinand Marcos was ousted in a nearly bloodless coup after 20 years as head of the Phillipines and Corazon Aquino became the country's first woman president.

It was a year of natural disasters, airplane crashes, terrorist attacks, racial strife, world hunger, a $2 trillion national debt, a summit meeting between the US and the USSR, and new kings of professional football and baseball.

An earthquake took more than 7000 lives in Mexico in early September while more than 25,000 people were smothered by mud spilling from an erupting volcano in Columbia in November.

Famine continued in Africa and despite the efforts of US musicians with their We Are The World hit record to aid the starving, thousands continued dieing each month

The white majority government of South Africa continued its policy of apartheid despite world opinion and riots throughout the nation by disgruntled blacks.

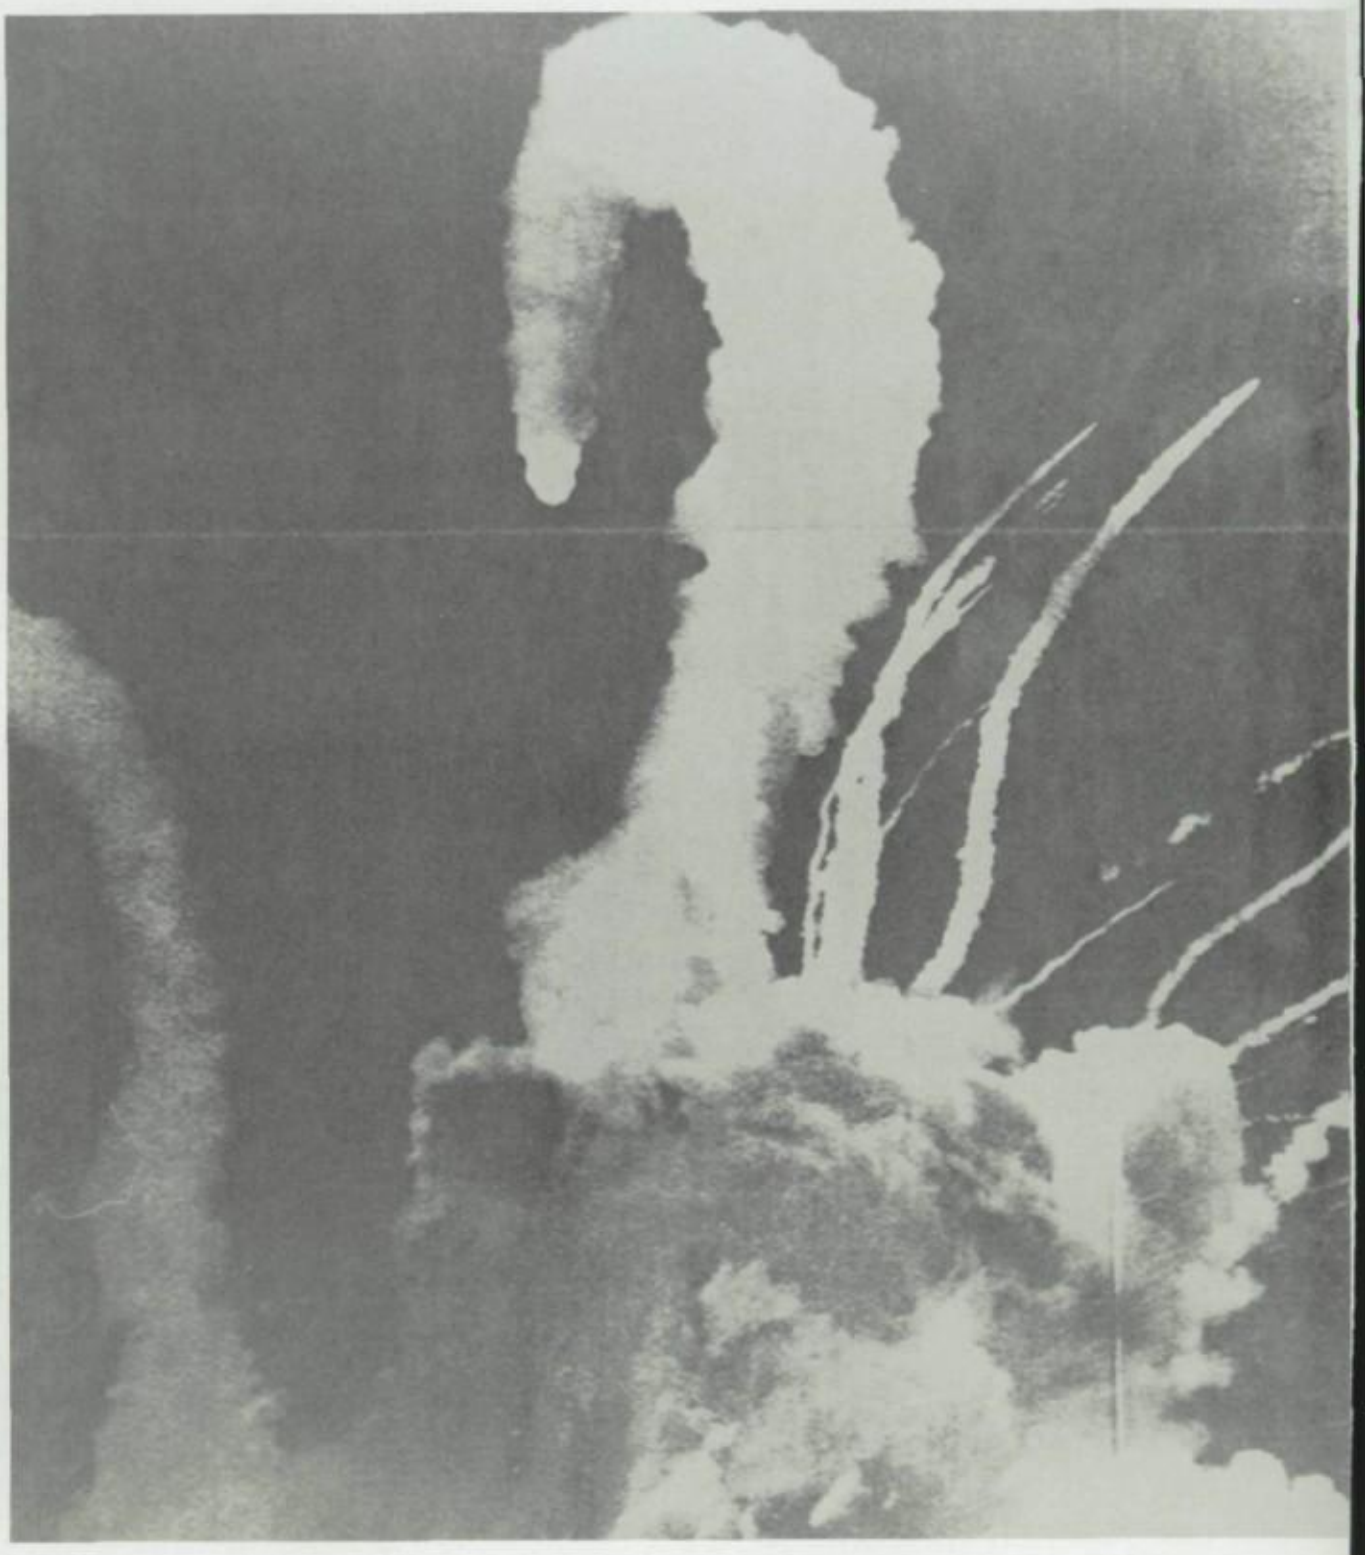
A summit meeting between President Ronald Reagan and Premier Mikhail Gorbachev of Russia cooled down the cold war but relations continued to be strained as both countries sought some kind of arms agreement.

More than 500 people died in an airplane crash in Japan while another 329 drowned as a 747 went down in the Atlantic.

Terrorists highjacked a TWA airplane in the summer, killing one American passenger and holding 39 hostages for a period of time in Beirut. In the fall, the Italian cruise ship Achille Lauro was highjacked and one American was murdered. The US intercepted an Egyptian airliner carrying the hijack leaders and turned them over to Italian authorities for trial.

The Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh returned to India after pleading guilty to immigration charges and the Gramm-Rudman bill was enacted which would force the federal government to balance the budget within five years.

In sports, the awesome Chicago Bears easily won the Super Bowl while an underdog Kansas City Royals team came back to whip their cross-state St Louis rivals for the World Series title.



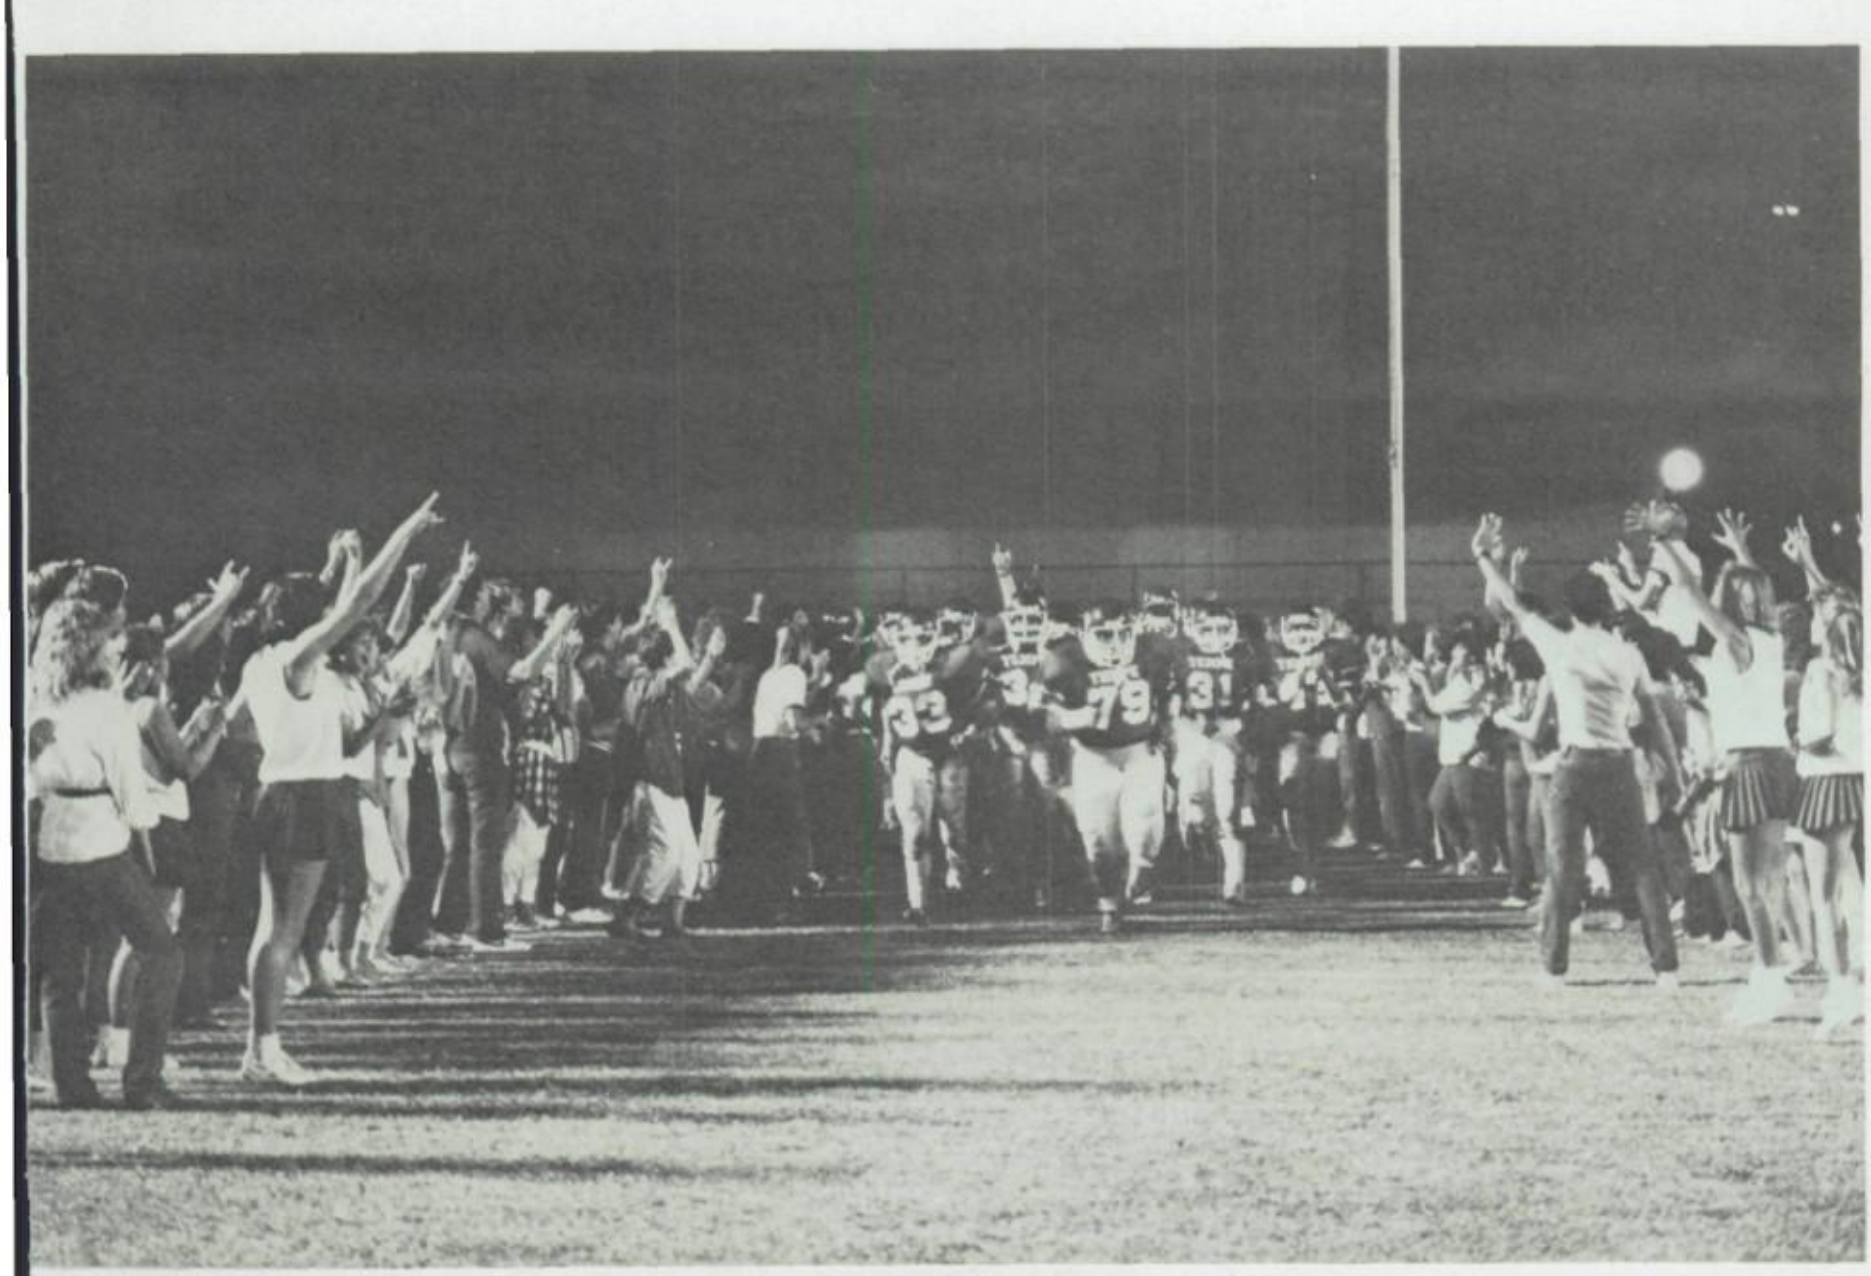
Private parties most popular entertainment

Junior Sherry Bumpas and Sophomore Malia Schooler share a laugh at one of the weekend parties as they talk about the way one of their teachers acts.

When weekends rolled around, or any day when there was no school to look forward to, students looked for something to entertain them, to keep them busy, to give them a break from the daily grind of high school classes.

By far the most popular events were parties given at private homes. There were no formal invitations nor much planning in advance. The word just went out, "There's a party!" and people showed up and had a good time entertaining themselves.

Other activities included movies, cruising, school football or basketball games, and school dances.



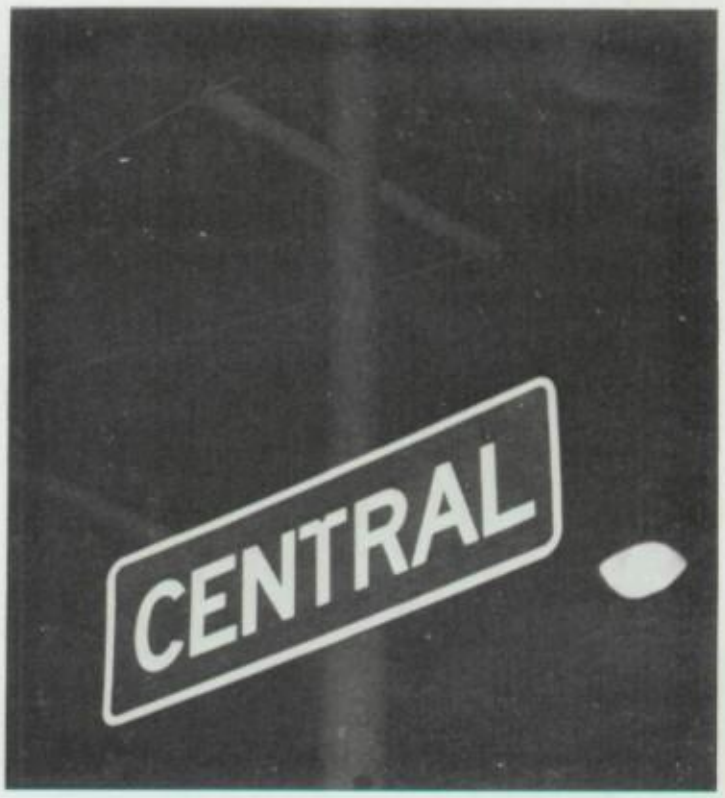
howing their Buff pride, students form a "spirit line" for the Buffalo team. Athletic contests were always a opular place to go at night.

Sophomores Jaunett McCormack, Nikki Wade and Eva Shivers practice until late in the evening to perfect their performance for the school talent show.

Social Studies teacher Jim Gentrup had trouble deciding how best to stay on the donkey at the Donkey Ball game.

Looking surprised when they hear that the refreshments have just arrived at the party at a friend's house were Junior Raul Ruiz, Sophomore Liz Clark and Junior Angela Flick.

Juniors Darla Imhoff and Gwen Mabrey pal around at one of the many parties found in the area on weekend nights.



Central Avenue was a popular place to cruise on Friday and Saturday nights.

)ances were a popular way to spend Friday nights, espeially during the football season when there seemed to be ne almost every weekend. The big trouble was, you always had to stand in line and dig around for your student ID before you could get in. And the rule was inviolate. No ID, no entrance to the dance.

'What should I wear? Is my hair fixed OK?'

These and similar questions were asked every day by both boys and girls as they decided how they would look to their peers and their teachers. And how they looked was nearly as varied as the number of students on campus.

Understanding the impression created by appearance was an important lesson on the Road to the Future.

Some students opted for a completely individual look, giving the impresssion that they were secure in their feelings about themselves. Often, however, the individualists looked very much like other individualists.

The majority of the student body, however, opted for some variation of jeans, relatively short hair and loose shirts. Comfort and utility seemed to dictate fashion more than anything else.

At school dances, at parties, and on dates, the clothes worn were often a bit wilder than those worn at school. But, they normally fit the image the wearer had created or wanted to create.

Sporting a "different" type of boot, this student also chose to wear baggy pants tucked inside of long socks.

Among the most popular type of foot wear were running shoes of any brand or appearance.

High on the list of clothes worn at a dance were the tight pants and big shirt which allowed Junior Darla Imhoff to rock without any problems.

The mini-skirt returned to popularity among some coeds worn, in this case, with flats and bobby socks.

Showing the contrasts found at Friday night dances, Junior Cindy Wolfe sported a striped shirt, loose sweater, blue jeans and comfortable, flat-heeled shoes. Senior Ly Ner chose to be a bit more dressy in high heels, stockings and long, full skirt.

ontrasting with the mini-skirt above, these two coeds port loose, baggy pants and a long, thigh-length skirt. oth wore flat shoes which were the most popular.

The variety in footwear is well demonstrated by this group waiting in line to buy tickets at a Friday night dance in the gym.

Many of the athletes at Tempe High prefered a short cut, considering Arizona's weather conditions. Senior Scott Conant models this haircut for us.

Many new hair styles arrived this year at Tempe High and Junior Chrissy Ciciliot shows us hers.

Junior Heather Cranwell shows her short bob that enhances her long neck.

Junior Lawrence Martin wears his hair over his eyes to be "different".

Junior Sherry Bumpass models one of the new short hairstyles on campus.

'Quad Time' used to socialize, relax

Morning, noontime or after school, students used the Quad as a place to relax, talk, or get involved in an impromptu game of frisbee. It was called "Quad Time," a time to take a break from class routine and socialize.

Similar activities took place at other spots on campus, notably the infamous Unit Five hangout. All were the places to be for different groups.

Thinking about the four long days left until the weekend are Juniors Dori Bowers and Chrissy Fisher.

Juniors Ken Orman and Richard Kerr and Sophomore Brad Sonnenburg commiserate with one another about the Nutrasweet which is now contained in the new Diet Coke.

Senior Kelly Hiett tries to bully a piece of gum out of Junior Raul Ruiz.

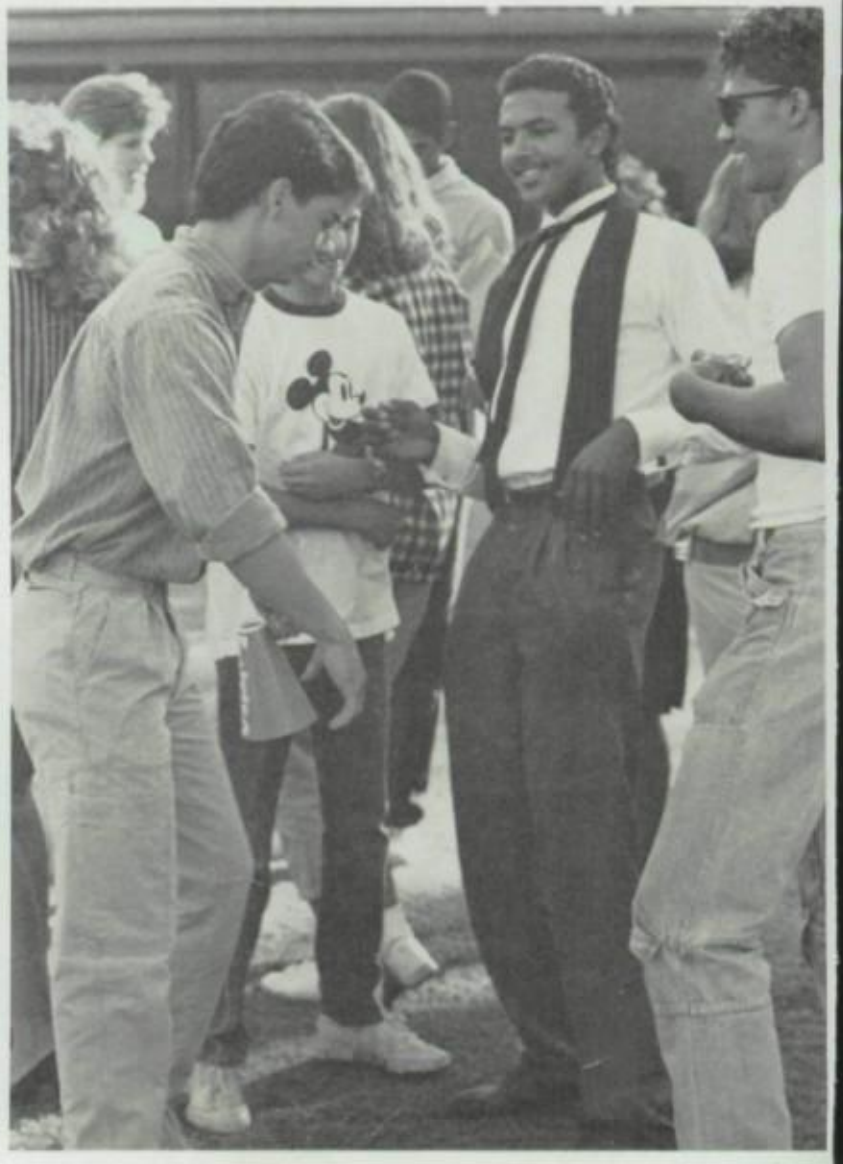
Getting involved during Mac Week, students participate in a very intense game of volleyball.

Juniors Monica Williams and Robert James talk about their plans for the weeekend.



Making fun of how people dance are Junior Shad Griffin, Sophomore Jeff Whitley, Junior Jim Shinn and Senior James Ford.

Senior Kim Ordaz jams at one of the Breakfast Dances in the Quad.

Gazing at the gorgeous uperclassman walking by are Sophomores Eva Shivers and Nikki Wade.

Trying to get the attention of the beautiful blonde senior who appears to be ignoring them are Sophomore Matt Morton, Junior Matt Lyons, and Sophomores Mark Ward, Glen Leach and Brian Colvin. She never even gave the poor guys a second glance.

On Career Day sponsored by the Black Student Union, many students enjoyed a break in the Quad at lunchtime, including these from other schools throughout the District.

Council relaxed but did job

They were probably the most relaxed student council seen at Tempe High in many years. At least, they gave that appearance. Their pictures on this page attest to that!

But, somehow, all of their projects got done. Underneath the relaxed atmosphere was a hard-working crew that buckled down when required and accomplished their tasks.

Said Senior Class President Aileen Balizado, "They were very easy to work with. It was a very relaxed atmosphere but we always seemed to find time to have fun. We enjoyed working together with them."

Corresponding Secretary Melody Kessler prepares a letter to another high school for a student exchange.

Automation becomes part of COE classes

The COE Officers. Kneeling: Dolores Gonzalez, Kim Hoffman and Janet Myers. Standing: Lynn Gibson, Shannon Lewis, Lori Price, Laini Hassett and Lee Ann Donato.

It was up early to make a "0" hour class for the girls in the Cooperative Office Education course. That was their COE class. Then more morning classes and off to work in offices throughout the Valley area in the afternoon.

The course was no longer confined to typing and shorthand as many would think. As automation has entered the business world, so it has necessarily entered the classes that teach people to function in that world. Even though typewriters were still in the classroom, they were much more complicated and automated than they were just a few years ago. Other office business machines had also become technological marvels. But it took more skill and training to use them.

According to COE teacher Mrs. Marianne Mitchell, many of the girls were working with computers at their jobs.

FBLA students get work in 'real world'

On-the-job training was the major role of the Future Business Leaders of America. Students attended class part of the day and worked in community businesses the rest of the day. The goal was to develop leadership skills as well as to teach club members how to get along with fellow workers in the "real world."

According to club advisor Mrs. Kim Hilgers, "There were more COE students involved in the FBLA this year than ever before. That's a good sign that we're doing something the students think is helpful to them."

Problem awareness goal of BSU for year

The Black Student Union. Front row: Jocelyn Watkins, Franchelle Frazier, Twoi Bigbie, Jane Reid, Gwendolyn James, Renita Cross and Teri Ballard. Back row: Julia Brooks, Margo McKenzie Renee McTier, Jacob Alsbrook, Victor Lamb, Jim Shin, Tehira Strong and Mrs. Dene Wallace.

The primary purpose of the Black Student Union was to increase members' awareness of new problems relating to the educational, economic, political and social conditions of blacks in the community.

Among major activities were Career Day, a Soul Food Taster for the faculty and sponsoring a dance, all in February.

In May, they conducted a BSU Olympic Day.

Culture appreciation aim of French Club

Appreciating French culture and learning the language were the primary goals of the French-club. Activities to promote the goals included french restuarant eating, caroling in the language at Christmas, a Mardi Gras party in February and taking part in the Foreign Language Fair in April.

The club earned the money necessary to give a scholarshipfor $1000 to the club member who showed "great academic achievement" and who planned to study French in college or to travel in France.

Interest grows in Science club

An increased interest in science and things scientific has seemingly swept through Tempe High. At least, that's what was indicated by the increased size of the Science Club. According to sponsor Mr. Leo Wood, "The club grows and grows, year after year."

One of the main club projects for the year was to drag out the telescopes and watch the skies for Halley's Comet.

Latin Club reorganizes

Reorganized after a year of inactivity, the Latin Club reestablished goals and began working toward them. Among their primary aims was to learn more about the Latin language. They also decided to study in greater depth about the culture and history of ancient Rome.

The Latin Club. Front row: Ly Ner, Ron Coleman and Natasha Larimer. Back row: Bjorn Aannestad, Ms. Judy Paul, Heather Shiffer, Jennifer Ciolek and Dan Berman.

FFA transfers activities onto THS campus

The Future Farmers of America began the year giving up the 20 acres of land near the District offices which they had farmed on the weekends. Instead, they built pens and cages on the campus where the club raised sheep and rabbits which were shown and sold at the Maricopa County Fair.

Club advisor Mr. Gail Deal said that despite its smaller size, this year's club members were "much more enthusiastic than those of the year before."

Among the club's chief projects for the year was dairy andlivestock judging at the Arizona State Fair.

The Future Farmers of America. Front row: Kelly Wright, Sara Sandstedt, Wade Jordan, Dennis Thomas, Linda Wright, Jayne Scott, Jeff Poulter and Wayne Scott. Pride in selves, school, teams required for Cheerleaders

Being a cheerleader meant having "pride in the school and in yourself," according to one member of the Varsity line.

It meant early morning practices for no scholastic credit and many other hours spent painting signs and raising funds for the Lines' activities. It also meant being at every game whether you wanted to be there or not.

Cheerleaders were selected by a panel of judges after a particularly stiff tryout system. And, despite the drain on their free time, they were required to maintain good grades and to always be a credit to the school and the Cheer line wherever they went.

The Varsity cheerline begins twirling their megaphones as they start a cheer going during the Cortez football game.

The Junior Varsity Cheerline. Julie Arthurs, Jaunett McCormick, Eve Tuhey, Vicky Kennedy and Stephanie Lenard.

With Buffy Buffalo in the back round, Senior Tammy Gelier begins to urge the crowd to cheer louder during the Mesa football game.

Organizations

Sophomores Eva Shivers and Nicole Wade boogie to a '50's tune during the Band's halftime show at the Homecoming game.

Junior Tracy Coleman struts her stuff.

New sponsor, flags highlight Pom's year

Beginning the year without a sponsor put the Pom Pon line a bit behind but the appointment of Ms. Lillian Gomez after the first month gave them the organization and drive required to become a top-flight group.

Sophomore Eva Shivers summed the Lines' feelings. "A lot of times it was hard for us to get things together, and sometimes it almost seemed impossible to think that things would work out. But, somehow, we always seemed to pull through and, by working together, things worked out."

Working with the Buff Band took on a new wrinkle as the Pommies hoisted flags and performed as a Flag Line for several of the Band's best shows, particularly the one where they were rated Superior at the NAU Band Day competition.

The Pom Pon Officers. Shereen Burns, Cindy Haverland, Adrienne Henry and Eva Shivers.

Back row: Amy Bakes, Tracy Coleman, Debbie Johnson, Kim Wood, Adrienne Henry, Jennifer Anderson and Amber Hunsinger.

Professionalism marked dance troupe's programs, activities

Dionysus. It was a dance troupe with all the requirements of a professional organization. Members had to be asked to join after auditions; they were expected to maintain a professional pride in their performances and in their choreography; and they were a recognized elite on campus.

Dionysus concentrated on modern forms of dance in their three concerts during the year.

In order to help finance their performances, the troupe sold mirrors and candy at various times during the year.

Junior Holly Krecklow and Senior Mary Jo Balabuch concentrate very hard while performing a routine.

Club aims at friendship

Understanding each other and learning to know everyone as individuals were what Anytown was all about. "It is an organization where everyone really gets to know each other," according to Senior Aileen Balizado.

Using increased communications skills was one of the primary methods used by club members to break down racial and cultural barriers, two of the major aims of the group.

Interact aims to interact with community

The major goal of Interact is "to interact with other club members, with our school and with our community," according to club president Jane Christiansen.

After starting the year with a new sponsor, English teacher Mr. Don Benjamin, the club held a dance for the students at Getz School, a school for the mentally and physically handicapped.

They helped sponsor the Mistletoe dance at Christmas whose royalty was selected mostly on the basis of what they had done for the communmity. Jane said, "Our intent was to see that some recognition as royalty was given to students who were not selected primarily on the basis of popularity or looks."

The club also sold canlendars and stickers to help finance their activities.

The Matmate Officers. Sally May, Treasurer; Gwen James, Secretary; Anne Tucker, Vice President; and Amanda Stone, President.

Wrestlers helped at meets by Matmates

A larger number than had been seen in several years comprised the Matmates whose primary purpose was to assist the wrestling team and the referees at matches. They kept score for the officials based upon a reading of the intricate (to the uninitiated) hand signals and shouts coming from the referee. The group provided spectator support for the team as well as "goodie" boxes of high energy foods to provide quick strength after the weigh-in.

Calling the gym almost a second home, they were found behind the snack bar counter at every dance and game. They also sold candy on campus and participated in the HERO flea market to raise funds for their activities.

Matmates were also active in getting student support for the Buffalo wrestlers. Their efforts paid off in larger crowds than in recent years. As Junior Sally May said, "I enjoy seeing the students going to the wrestling matches. I think it really helps the wrestlers do a better job."

Group members spent hours in the basement gym learning the various holds, the penalities and the scoring system so as to better understand what the officials would be saying to them at a match.

Active Key Club helps out in community

The Key Club. Front row: Heather Drake, Linda Evans, Lisa Blier, Dina Giacoletti, Kris Mun, Jeff Whitley, Anita Verdugo, Arlene Martinez and Cindy Haverland. Second row: Amanda Sharp, Chris Dicken, Jenny Hochstrasser, Stephanie Leonard, Laurie Troupa, Todd Braver, Tammy Schlador, Helena Kokaliares, Tracey Stearns, Linda Jaskowski and Jeff Boettcher. Third row: Steve Fullmer, Mr. Bill Graham, Kolbie Openshaw, Mark Duplissis, Keith Olbricht, Cheryl Stewart, Nora Schmidt, Andy Ortiz and Lori Annala.

Among the most active of campus clubs, the Key Club, which is sponsored nationally by the International Kiwanis Clubs, spent their time helping in the community. They sold Christmas trees with their parent organization, and they sponsored a booth at the community Halloween party as two of their major projects.

Freshman Arlene Martinez said, "I really enjoy being in the Key Club. It's fun and I meet lots of new people."

The Kings Club. Front row: Rudy Navarette, Kent McvAugh, Shad Griffin, Todd Conant, Scott Conant, Jeff Whitley and Ramond Ussery.
Back row: James Ford, Mark Holland, Craig Parkhurst, David Duncan, Joe Haver and Miles Henry.

Kings Club seeks to be unique

The Kings Club seeks to be unique by selecting their members based upon academics, community activities and sports participation.

Club member Senior James Ford said, "I really enjoy participation in this club. I really get to know a lot of people."

Organizations

Letter, TD clubs boost athletics

The Letter and Touchdown clubs both spent their time promoting Buffalo athletics in general and Buffalo teams in particular.

Membership in the Letter club was limited to Tempe High athletes, both boys and girls, who had recieved a letter in any sport. Touchdown club membership was open to anyone who wanted to promote Buffalo athletics. Most members, however, were participating athletes.

The Letter Club. Front row: Carlos Rodriquez, James T. Ford, Roy Olson, Andy Lee and Carl Krum. Hard-working chess club goes to regionals

It was a good year for the Chess Club. In fact, it was one of the best in several years as they headed to regionals, something they had not been able to accomplish in some time.

Accodring to club sponsor Mr. Richard Torrez, "It takes a lot of concentration to be a good chess player. One of the team strengths is its dedication." He said that the team had joined the US Chess Federation and began practicing each Thursday night in the public library. Working against other teams practicing there made a big difference.

During the season, the team competed in two types of tournaments, dual quads and invitationals.

Ski club hit the slopes during Christmas he Ski Club. Front row: Randy Pridonoff, Paul Buseck, Mike Azzi, Dan Wagstaff, en Collins, Bill Owen and Rob Mainieri. Third row: Mr. Tim McBurney, Anton Pridoff, Malia Schooler, Jodi Fedorchak, Nicol Saliba, Nicole Wade and Shana Rothenrg.

In a break with tradition, the Ski Club made only one major trip to the slopes during the school year. Over the Christmas break, they headed to an old favorite, Mammoth, California. Said Senior Mike Azzi, "It was great! It was a lot bigger than anything in Arizona and had a lot of intermediate and beginner runs. We had a ball!"

As usual, the club welcomed skiers of all levels of experience, from beginners to experts.

Club fund raisers included sponsoring a school dance in January.

'Successful season' result of hard work

Hours of hard work each day, literally from dark to dark, practicing music and specific drills paid off in a highly successful season for the Buffalo Marching Band. They received high marks at both the ASU and NAU band competitions which helped engender a new sense of pride in band members.

"We focussed mainly on entertaining," said Junior Michelle Comeaux. "And it seemed to pay off. The audiences certainly seemed to enjoy our shows." The band worked a Hawaiian theme into their performances which featured the entire band changing into the gaudy Hawaiian shirts while hidden under a blue and white parachute.

Most band members felt good about belonging to the group. As Sophomore Matt Wagner said, "We've really gotten it together this year."

Instrumental musicians who perform must practice constantly. In addition to private practice sessions, they must rehearse with the other members of their group. Shown during the daily Concert Band rehearsal are trumpeter Junior Michelle Comeaux and trombonist Junior Kevin Butler.

Orchestra, bands perform at many locales in year

Performing instrumental music for hundreds of listeners was the primary job during the Spring semester of three groups at the school, the Concert Band, the Orchestra and the JV Band.

The Concert Band was composed mostly of members of the Buffalo Marching Band and didn't really start its performing until after the marching season.

The Orchesatra worked throughout the year giving more than a half dozen concerts to a wide variety of audiences.

The JV Band was made up of beginning musicians who spent the first semester learning and performed primarily at home basketball games during the Spring semester.

Organizations

Choirs perform through Valley

Performances for nearly any group that asked were given throughout the entire Valley of the Sun by the three vocal music groups at Tempe High.

The A Capella Choir, the largest group, performed between 45 and 50 times between September and June, with 18 shows during the Christmas season alone.

Appearing many times with the Choir were the Jazzmin, a highly talented group that combined dancing with their singing.

The Chorale was a group of beginning vocalists who presented numbers at some of the A Capella Choir's appearances.

Drama club sees many plays

The Drama Club is a social academic organization that encourages students to learn more about the theatre while being among friends.

"We go to plays together and really have a good time. If you have a big interest in the theatre, you can go into the Thespians", said Drama Club member Sharla Joy

The Drama Club. Front row: Russell Barnes, Linda Lieberman, Mary Tong, Dori Bowers, Patrick O'Meara, Arusha Baker and Stephanie Miller. Mime Troupe performs with silent gestures

Silence. No noise. Only movement. But the range of emotions shown to audiences is as great as if the words had been written by Shakespeare.

This is the Mime Troupe. The Mimes always dress in black and have white painted faces. It is through facial expression, hand and body movement and a minimum of props that they communicate their message.

The THS Troupe performed mostly for children at area elementary schools and hospitals.

Forensics gets new sponsor

Boasting a new coach and sponsor, the Forensics team went through nine tournaments during the year. Each tournament meant hours of practice after school and on weekends.

New sponsor Ms. Judy Paul said, "Forensics is a very enriching experience for all."

Thespians is international drama club

The honorary international drama group for high schoolers is The Thespians which had a very active chapter during the year at THS.

After students had earned enough points for appearing in various drama productions, they were invited to become members of the exclusive group. All had to maintain a 3.0 or better GPA to remain in good standing.

Said Junior Dori Bowers, "It's interesting because it's international."

The Thespians. Dori Bowers, Martha Wells, Cheryl Kitts, Mr. Mario Garcia, Linda Lieberman, Jason True, Charla Joy and Pat O'Meara.

HERO involved in community

One of the most active groups on campus, HERO (Home Economics Related Occupations) is a select group of students who work part-time at a wide variety of jobs in the community, receiving both school credit and pay for their work.

The club is also highly active in helping those in need. They organized a very succesful toy drive for needy children at Christmas and also adopted a family for the holidays.

A "Flea Market" to help clubs at all of the schools in the district was organized by HERO as was a talent show in the spring. Said Char Merican, "The HERO club made me more involved with my job and helped me set and meet my goals successfully."

HERO Officers. Shelby Rasmussen, Gwen Hardison, Dan Cochnour, Zac Barrett, Karen McCray and Char Merican.

Altramira staff all volunteers

The school's literary magazine, The Altamira published another top copy of poems, short stories, photographs artist's drawings. As contrasted to the other school publications, The Altamira was staffed completely by volunteers who met Fridays after school to read the articles submitted and to select which pictures and drawings would be used.

In common with the other publications, the staff set the type and pasted up the pages, sending the magazine to the printer ready to be photograpahed and put on the presses.

NHS offers tutoring to raise funds for club

Offering a tutoring service to students who were having difficulty in their classes was the primary method of fund raising for the National Honor Society. And, of course, it also provided a service to the student in difficulty and NHS is a service organization.

The club's membership was somewhat exclusive. The first requirement was a 3.0 minimum GPA. A panel of teachers then selected students to be members. The club's induction ceremony was held in October.

Senior Robyn Daggett said, "NHS offers students a chance to be recognized for their academic achievements. That's a bit different from the usual service clubs."

The National Honor Society. Front row: David Bushman, Heather Herald, Anita Andrews, Lauren Craft, Mary Anne Carrillo, Anne Barnum, Aaron Mishler, Kendall Fink, Courtney Hauge, Cindy Haverland, Verna DeBow, Lara Harris and Shaelin Charania. The Horizon has difficult year

It was a difficult year for the school yearbook staff as there were virtually no experienced people at the beginning of the year. As one staffer said, "Learning while doing sounds alright but it makes it almost impossible to meet deadlines."

In fact, the staff missed all deadlines and didn't know when the yearbook would arrive on campus when they sent in the final copy.

Buffalo establishes print record

The Buffalo set a printing record for the District and the Valley. The staff published an average of one eight page tabloid-sized newspaper every two weeks throughout the school year.

"It was very difficult but the credit goes to Robyn Daggett, the editor, and her ability to get the job done," said Advisor Chuck Newton.

"It was hard but we managed. And we generally kept up the high standards we set last year when we won the top Medalist award."

New clubs organized

Two new clubs were organized in the Industrial Arts department, the Auto Buffs and The Industrial Arts Club.

The Auto Buffs was aimed at improving member's knowledge about cars and how they worked.

They competed with other schools in repairing cars, they went to shows and were often at the drag races.

Entrance into the club was by test and invitation. A major advantage for club members was that they could buy auto parts at wholesale according to the vice-president, Brian Desnoyer.

The Industrial Arts club worked mainly in woods. Their projects included picture frames, small chests and chairs.

Season not outstanding for Varsity

It was not an outstanding season but, according to Head Coach Glen Alford, "The team certainly had nothing to be ashamed of." It was a young team with few returning lettermen. And it was a small team boasting a roster that seldom exceeded 35 who were able to play.

Among the season's highlights was the game against Corona when the Buffaloes came from behind in the second half and held on through a thrilling last play to notch the win.

Senior Greg Jones (75) kicks off against Corona as Junior Oscar Young (80) takes off to try for the tackle. The Buffs won the game in the fourth quarter in a come-from-behind thriller.

Quarterback Dave Robson (15) keeps the ball and heads downfield. Just a sophomore, Dave started in the quarterback slot most of the season.

Senior Eric Rohde (71) tries to tackle Chandler quarterback Deke Schutes (10) as Wolves lineman Mike Menapace (56) looks down field to see if the pass was caught.

Sophomore Dave Robson hands off to Junior Danny Garcia as the Buff's offensive line surges forward during the McClintock game.

Senior Elgin Caldwell (18) outmaneuvers his McClintock opponent as he races downfield into Buffalo Territory.

varsity football varsity football varsity football

Senior Gary Tutrone (22) races downfield looking for the Corona ball player he is assigned to.

Racing far downfield to hit the Corona ball carrier, Senior Rudy Navarrette (60) shows why the Buffs were able to come from 21 points behind to win the game.

Trying to elude McClintock defensive backs Chris Baniszewski (21) and Todd Faulkner (44) is Tempe ball carrier Senior Elgin Caldwell (18). Elgin played his third year on the Varsity and was selected the outstanding Tempe player for several games by local sportswriters.

Sophomore quarterback Dave Robson (15) keeps the ball and carries it for a big gain.

Waiting for the punt to reach him, Junior Keith Smith (81) keeps his eyes on the ball.

Heading for the goal line, Sophomore T.C. Wright (20) eludes a Cortez tackler and looks for an opening.

The Buffalo defense does a job on McClintock! Tempe's defensive unit has always had a good reputation and this is why. Senior Eric Rhode (71) drops the Charger ball carrier for no gain as Senior Todd Conant (24) and Mike Rose (24) come in to help if necessary.

Sophomore Dave Robson plants the ball on the "spot" for the kicker.

Senior Elgin Caldwell (18) sticks it to a Mesa ball carrier. Elgin was one of several players who went both ways for the Buffs. He was an outstanding wide receiver on offense.

JV Football team keeps fighting to end

The 0-6 start for the 1985 JV football season didn't stop the team as they headed into their seventh game against Corona del Sol. The undefeated Aztecs were heavily favored but that didn't seem to faze the Buffs who raced to a 17-14 win which put them into position for a shot at the City Championship.

Assistant Coach Jim Gentrup said, "They're a talented team, but costly mistakes have been the main cause of their setbacks. But they hung in there and were able to show their true abilities. Even though they were in a slump, they fought all the way to the end."

Running back Mark Buchanan runs out of the grasp of a would-be Marcos de Niza tackler.

Junior running back Armando Hernandez (31) begins a sweep of right end behind a wall of blocking linemen.

Sophomore quarterback Brent Dufor (15) fades back for the deep pass behind good blocking.

Frosh goal was learning THS football style

A large freshman contingent began the season aiming to win all their games, a tradition started by the previous year's frosh team. During the first two games, it looked like they might be successful as they walked over Chandler Jr. High and Willis Jr. High. But reality caught up with the team and they began losing. However, they came out of the slump to win their share over the season.

According to Coach Curtis Cook, the frosh football program is designed to teach the boys the rules of the game and the brand of football played at Tempe High. "While we certainly want to win," he said, "the main thing is to be sure they understand how to play the game."

Among the top players on the team were Yul Barrs, Toland Black and Toby Wright according to Coach Curtis.

Under heavy attack, Quarterback Yul Barrs (10) tosses a strike far downfield to a waiting receiver.

Running back Toby Wright (20) eludes an attempted tackle and heads down field as teamates come up to help.

Making a great fingertip catch downfield and moving with some interference in case it was needed was Freshman Don Cox who made a long gain with this pass.

Breaking away from a crowd of would-be tacklers for a long gain is Running Back Kevin Jackson.

The offense (in dark jerseys) sets up for another play in a long drive for the goal.

'Remarkable progress' sums year's activity for Varsity Volleyball team

"As a team, we've made remarkable progress during the '85 season," said Coach Debbie Moore. She said that the team which had finished 4-12 last year finished 10-6 this year. She said that the team had made the most progress of "any I've seen in my 10 years of coaching."

The Buffaloes were the only team in the league to have three girls named to the All-League teams. Senior Karen Livingston and Junior Jenny Schrack were on the first team while Junior Gina Robles was named to the second team.

Sophomore Julie Celaya has the ball under control but Sophomore Stacey Schutte comes up from behind "just in case."

Improvement was the key to the success of the Junior Varsity Volleyball team. "Every member improved throughout the season," said Coach Jenda Trowbridge. She said that they had learned teamwork and that each had matured.

By season's end, they had won twice as many games as they had the previous year. Part of the reason was heigth. "It was a definite strength. Our tallest girl was 6' and she was followed by a 5'9" player," said Coach Trowbridge.

Badminton changes pace

Both the Varsity and the JV teams did quite well on the season. It was a year with a change of pace, however. The Varsity team consisted of all underclassmen except for one returning letterman.

Neither team had an outstanding record because of their lack of experience but, according to Coach Sheldon Wion, they did as well as could be expected for teams of beginners.

Freshman Marta Coleman lunges to save the return, hopefully.

Boy swimmers try to improve their times

With a larger turnout than in many years, the Boys swimming team headed hopefully into the season. But despite their numbers, they had no AAA swimmers who practice year 'round. Therefore, the team set the realistic goal of each man improving his times. Coach Bill Graham said, "We want to swim tough."

The team's secondary goal was to qualify as many for the Division and State meets as possible.

Coming out of a full turn, Senior Rob Haight searches for the spot he will land as he passes the diving flags.

Concentrating while doing the backstroke, Freshman John Ueland heads toward the wall.

Taking a breath of air during the breath stroke, Sophomore Scott Wojtulewicz tries hard for the win.

Rehearsing at pool's edge before climbing onto the board, Sophomore Jodal Vannoy goes through each phase of his dive with intense concentration.

Individual top times goal for girl swim team

A team of 25, only four of whom were seniors, practiced swimming every night during the fall season, rain or shine. The hard work seemed to pay off as eight girls went to the State meet.

The lack of experienced seniors caused the team to emphasize individual best times rather than team totals.

Coach Jim Vicich said, "There's a lot of young talent to work with next year."

With intense concentration and straining every fiber, Junior Melanie Ankeney strains for the finish line in the butterfly.

Seniors Tonya Tillery and Jill Robinson and Sophomore Missy Grischkowsky discuss their standings while waiting for their next event.

Freshman Shelley Cluff pulls tightly into a full tuck in the middle of one of her best dives.

Exerting every ounce of effort, Freshman Stacy Konomos strains toward the finish line.

Boys Cross Country led by Kendall Fink

Led by Senior Kendall Fink, one of the largest turnouts in recent years, 19 boys, greeted new cross country coach Jim Wehrman, a Gillian Jr. High teacher. He worked them hard, requiring at least five miles running each day in preparation for the weekly meet.

Kendall was the team's top runner, took first place at the Central Division meet and was sixth in the State tournament.

Top rated Senior Kendall Fink sets the pace for the meet as he strides uphill all alone, far out in front of his nearest competitor.

Girls forge competitive Cross Country team

"We were a really special team!" Senior Thea jarvi's sentiments were echoed by other members of the Girls Cross Country team that placed sixth at Division and second in the City.

Coached by professional runner Ed Mendoza, the girls were forged into a young but determined team. According to Thea, "Somehow, all our personalities mixed and we could have fun and be competitive at the same time."

Rated number two, Senior Thea Jarvi shows why as she strains for the tape with no one else in sight.

Straining every muscle as she run for the finish line was Senior Kar lene Garrison.

Goal for Frosh tennis was learning game

Though all members of the Freshmen Girls Tennis Team started as beginners, they had a very successful season according to Coach Lesley Hamilton. She said, "When my girls started, most of them didn't even know how to keep score. Now, if you were watching them play and didn't know different, you would think they had been playing for a year or two."

The coach said that the girls had all learned good sportsmanship and that they had "learned from their mistakes."

After the season ended in early November, most had a short layoff before they tried out for the Junior Varsity team in the Spring.

Throughout the short fall season, the girls moved up and down the ladder as each challenged the one above her, seeking the top spot.

Inexperienced boys tennis starts strong

The season started strong with two consecutive wins which was considered a strong showing for a team which had only two returning lettermen.

The team was bolstered by strong contingents from the fall's freshman team. They were a hard working group and really wanted to win.

Girls tennis had year for rebuilding

Both girls tennis teams were in a building year. The Varsity's most experienced players were two juniors. The rest were sophomores and freshmen. The JV was almost entirely from this year's freshman team.

Coach Debbie Moore said, "We aimed for a .500 season. We were definitely trying to get experience. But it was a great group of girls to work with. They were always in there trying and working to improve."

Alicia Webber easily volleys this one back.

Working hard on her form, Sophomore Kristine Fields fires a great serve.

'Best team in 15 years' sets records for Buffalo golfers

Boasting the "best golf team in the past 15 years" according to Coach John Pauley, the Buffaloes sent two players to the State Tournament and ended the season with a near winning record of 7 and 8.

Junior Andrew Hershberger displays classic form.

Junior Russell Oonk practices "chopping wood."

Sophomore Rob Mangini exhibits the characteristics of a true champion.

Varsity Basketball had 'Up and down season'

New faces, inexperience and a lack of consistency caused the Varsity Basketball team to go through the season somewhat erractically. As Coach Gerhard Schreur put it, "We had out ups and downs."

The team would run up a short win streak and then drop three or four. Then it was back to the win column.

The outstanding player, and one of the most consistent, was Senior Ricky Hernandez. He was elected to the All-Tournament team for the Christmas tournament played in the Valley by the Buffaloes.

The fact that three of the team's starters were only sophomores indicates that better things may be in store for Tempe High basketball fans in the next few years.

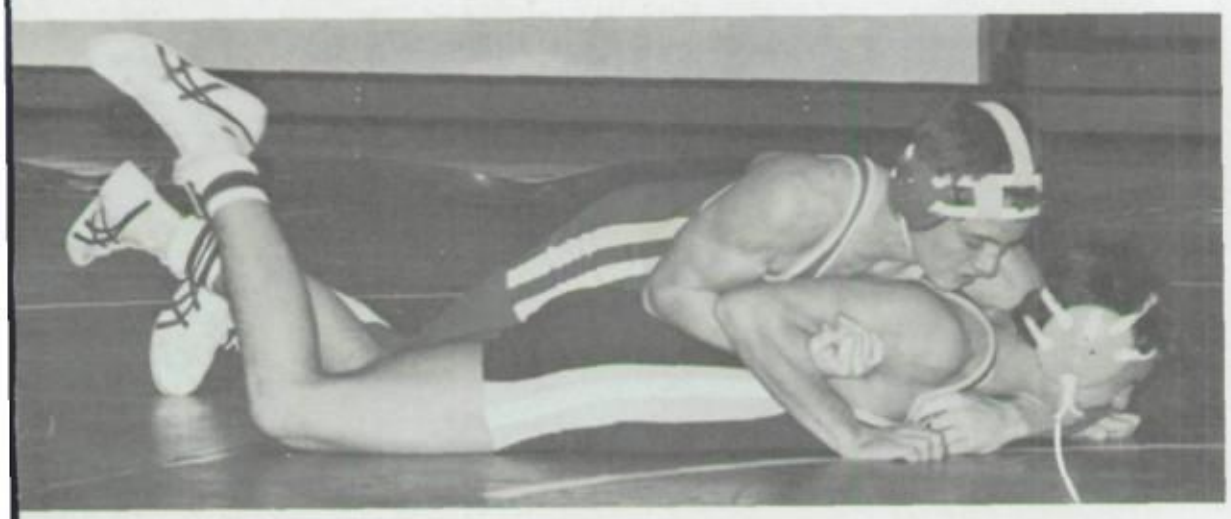
Varsity wrestlers get some Division titles

With a season record of 9 wins, 8 losses, the Varsity wrestlers finished the season above the .500 mark. On the way, they set three team records, the most pins, the most near falls and the most reversals.

The team's strongest and most consistent wrestlers were in the lower weights.

The team's captains were Seniors Tim Newman and Chris Guana. Tim was a Division champion at 108 pounds and Chris was well on his way to the title when he re-separated a shoulder. Senior Guy Morales was also a Division champion.

Tim Newman said that he felt, "We were a strong team," while Coach Curtis Cook said, "We lost six seniors but will will have seven returning lettermen next year."



Successfully taking down his tired opponent was Senior Matt Knutson.

City Championship won by JV Wrestlers

The JV Wrestlers had an excellent season with a final record of 9-1. They were also the City Champions. These invincible Buffs were lead bv their captains Jason Kirby and Paul Tucker. Juniors Armando Hernandez, Gary Ostendorf, Danny Rollins, and Eric Denny helped take the Buffs to the City Champs. They were also helped by many promising underclassmen.

Coach Tim McBurney said, "The Varsity B wrestlers this year help make an outstanding Varsity A team next year."

Frosh wrestling has great individual talent

The Frosh wrestling team was very small and didn't have a good team record. But, according to Mat Mate Aileen Balizado, "Individually, they were excellent."

Coach Glenn Alford said that the best records belonged to Mario Ambrose Hernandez (8-2), Mario Cruz Hernandez (7-3), Tony Lehn (7-3) and Dennis Gallagher (6-3).

Mario Ambrose Hernandez said that he feels "We will be very good next year and kick some butts."

Softball goes to playoffs

For the first time in six years, the Varsity Softball team headed for the playoffs. Despite a 5-16 season record, the '85-'86 Buffs were considered one of the best.

"They did great this year and I was very pleased with most of their performances," said Coach Tony Occhiuzzi. He added, "This is a very young team with only three graduating seniors. We plan to be even better next year."

Junior Marni Glenn swings with all her power hoping for a home run .

JV stuck with hard schedule

The JV softball team didn't have the greatest of seasons but, "They sure were competetive" according to Coach Scott Greenhalgh.

He also said, "Although their record didn't show it, the team was great fun to work with and, overall, full of talent and determination. They just had a tough schedule or they would have been on top."

The Freshman Softball Team. Sitting: Patricia Robles, Christine Tucker, Rina Nunez, Tracy King, Andrea Cook and Becky Christenson. Standing: Janette Moreno, Valarie Navarrette, Michelle Martin, Tina Wiechman, Helena Kokaliaries, and Aimee Zupicich.

Frosh had 'OK' year

"It was just an OK year for the Freshman softball team," according to Coach Mark Madsen. He said that there was quite a bit of talent on the team, "but it just didn't come out when it was game time."

The coach thought that the talent that was shown by the frosh would certainly help future Buffalo teams.

Middle third finish in EVL was girl's goal

Hoping to end in the middle third of the tough East Valley League, the Girls Basketball team started the season with only two starters from last year who had played in every game.

As was usual with a Richard Trujillo coached team, conditioning was of paramount importance. The girls spent most of the pre-season in running drills and worked for hours on speed, quickness and rebounds.

Varsity baseball had hopes for top season

A host of returning lettermen made the year appear to be one of the best the Buffalo nine would have in many seasons. In addition, the number of seniors provided the team with strong leadership which would be important in the tough East Valley League.

The team's experience was found in all positions, from pitching through fielding, both infield and outfield, and in hitting. Head Coach Jim Foster's smiles were big and broad as the season began.

Girls track inexperienced, had to 'rebuild'

"This was a rebuilding year," said Head Girls Track Coach Shannon Radford. He said that the team had eight returning lettermen. "Most of our strength was concentrated in the distance and field events," he said.

The areas where the girls had to work and find individuals who could pull through in the crunch of the meets was in the sprints, shorter distances, and the relays. The reasonable large turnout made the goals a possibility.

Frosh weather first days, look toward Fall

Freshmen Class Council: John Evans, Boys Representative; Valerie Navarrette, President; Christine Tucker, Vice President; Julie Martinez, Girls Representative; Jannette Marena, Secretary/Treasurer.

Those first few days were really not much fun. It was a new environment and they were the ones being picked on and hazed by what seemed like the entire school. But the freshmen soon found their way around, learned that "elavator passes" were a joke, and even began arriving to class on time.

Maturity began showing at pep rallies and games where the class more than held its own, probably because it was the biggest one in school. They got involved and began feeling like they really belonged to Tempe High.

At year's end, they were confident and looking forward to next year when they would be lordly sophomores and could teach another class of freshmen what a true Tempe High Buffalo was really like.

Sophomores no longer at 'bottom of pole

Officers of the Sophomore Class. Seated: President Derek Sanders, Secretary/Treasurer Eva Shivers, Vice President Stephanie Leonard, and Girls Representative Sandy Murray. Standing: Boys Representative Frankie Valenzuela.

The class of '88 was a united group who worked well together and were willing to do whatever was necessary to improve Tempe High.

For the class officers, it was a year of real involvement and responsibility as they sponsored the Coronation Ball which gave them a hint of the problems of running the Prom next year.

Class members were involved in a wide variety of activities on campus including sports, drama, music, and many clubs. And their academic activities were equal to those of any other class on campus.

One of the very important aspects of being a sophomore was experienced by most of the class on the first day of school. They were no longer freshmen, no longer at the bottom of the totem pole in the Tempe High School hiearchy. It was a good feeling and one they would remember on their Road to the Future.

Grinning a bit uneasily was Rick "Oleo" Oliphant as he was caught trying to "borrow" his brother's car. You just don't do that to a senior!

oanne Carfagna and Heather Allen work on cutting vegetables and cleaning up the kitchen as their lome Ec class helped prepare for the Department's annual Faculty Tea at Christmas.

Appropriately dressed for the chore, Nikki Wade tries to "snag" the answers to her English test.

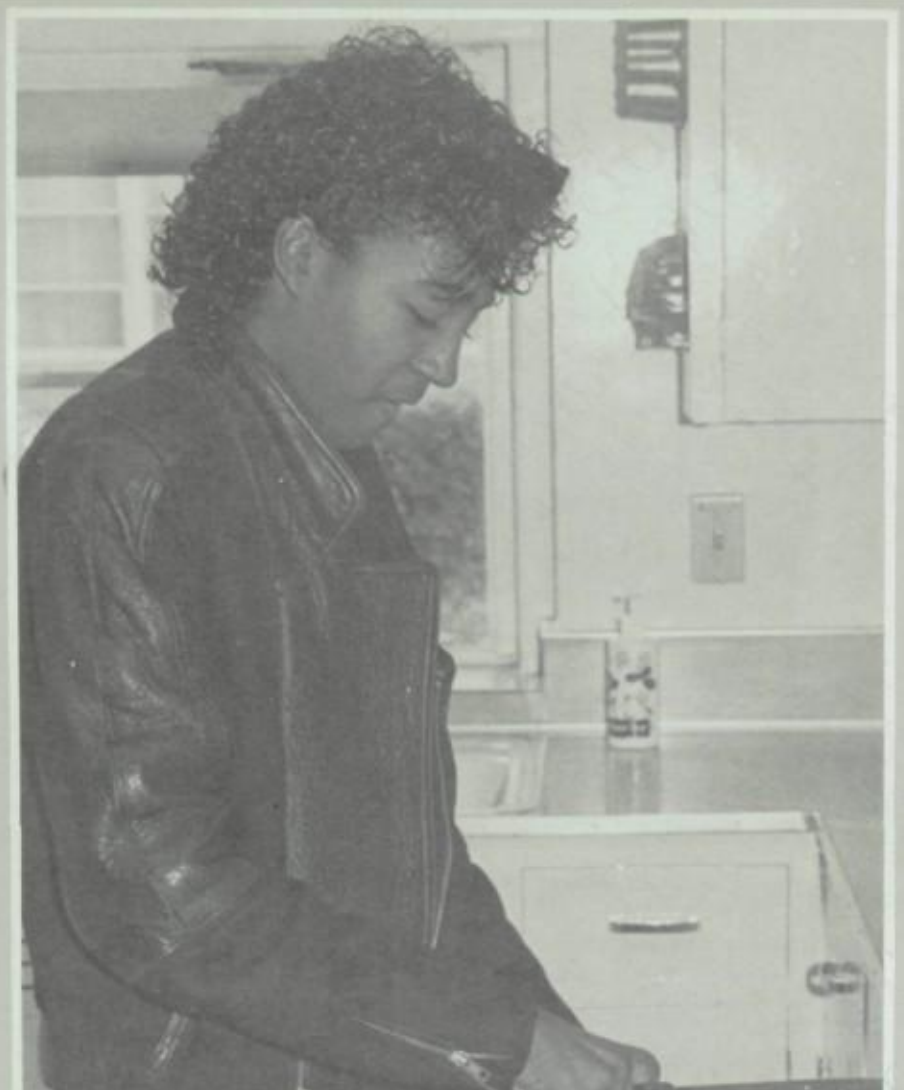
Smiling happily as she finishes cutting a large numbe of vegetables is Kellie Hylen.

Sharlah Southwick and Kristy Fields are trying to look "casual" while going to class.

Mark Duplissis is distracted from eating as the girl of his dreams walks by while Danny Bonow and Jimmy Scooler notice her too.

Jaunette McCormack goes back in time as a saloon dancer for the Halloween dress up day.

Alex Shivers practices hard for an upcoming concert.



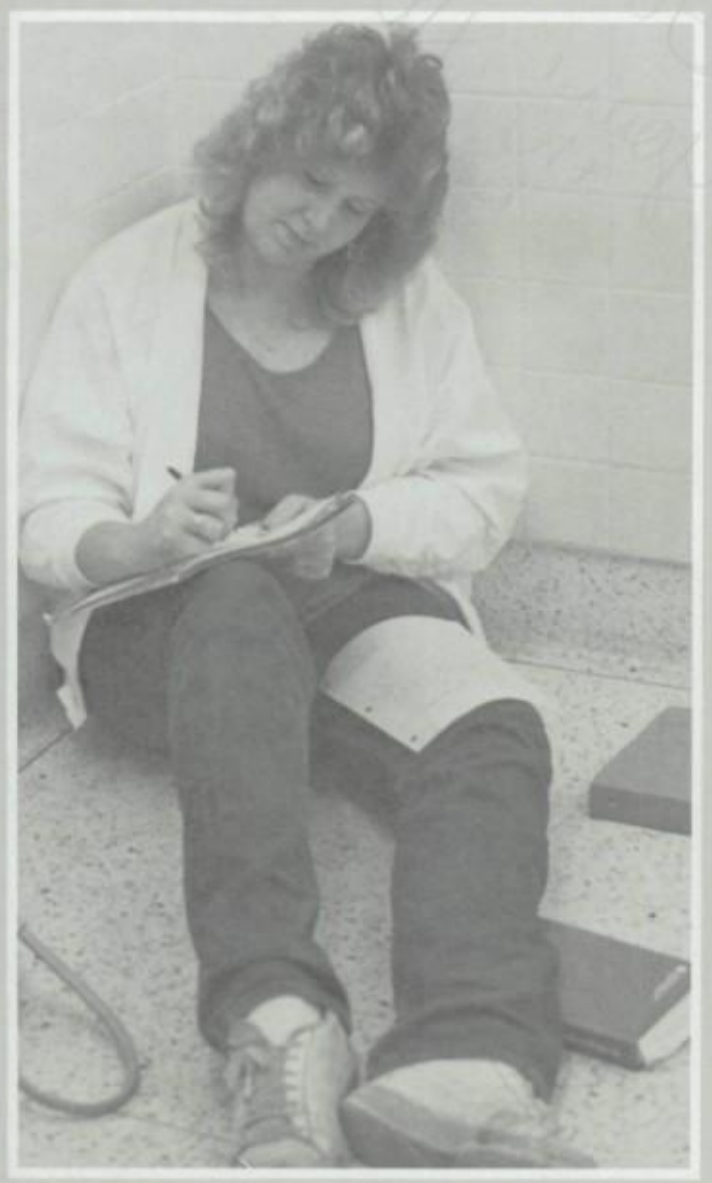
Jeff Graves is certain to cut only the celery and not his fingers as he helps prepare "goodies" for the Home Ec Department's annual Faculty Christmas Tea.

Lisa Blier tries arguing her way out of being accused of ditching.

Jason Roach and Lindy Evans jam out at one of th dances after the football game.

Margo McKenzie experiences all the "ughs" and messes of a lab experiment.

Trying to make an "A" on her test, Veronica Rivera works to recall what she read last night.



Trying to get her homework done during the passing period, Gina Golleher works in a corner of the restroom.

Derek Sanders and Paul Jensen "gulp" down their food during the school's 30 minute lunch period.

Rina,
Well girl its been such a great year!! Girl its been a long time! Wow it's been like forever, it better stay friends forever!! Right? Our friendship means so much to me: you're always there to talk to. Thanks!! I needed someone to get me through these classes together!! Rick!! Hope you get the best of luck with next year!! we make the best!! Hope you stay sweet, nice, and pretty. Stay ~ Sweet thru '88 !! '89 !!

'Almost there' Juniors sponsor Prom

The Junior Class Council. Russell Oonk, Vice President; Kolbie Openshaw, Secretary/Treasurer; Jim Shinn, Boy's Representative; Tonya Robinson, Girl's Representative; and Andy Ortiz, President.

A feeling of being "almos there," almost at the top of th school's pecking order, but stil informal and relaxed about it.. that seemed to describe the clas of 1987.

Their major activity was to spon sor the Prom in the Spring Perhaps as good a lesson a any that would be learned o their Road to the Future wa the realization that a small num ber did the work so that man could enjoy the results. Mos eligible students attended th Prom which had been planned organized and sweated upon b the class council and a fe helpers.

The class ended the year wit a feeling of pride and a certai superiority knowing that the would be "top dogs" as might seniors next year.

S - E - N - I - O - R - S ! Seniors, Seniors, THS!!

Who can forget being a senior? It means being at the top in the school. It means the end of many familiar things and a new beginning. Friendships that have grown through the year will be strained as we all go our separate ways.

All of the familiar faces, the loud noises during changing periods, the slamming of lockers, the yells for friends in the crowded hallways, the laughing, the crying--all of these will be a part of the past that seniors will carry with them into the great big world out there.

It will be a world of new challenges. But we will meet it as we met the challenges of being seniors in the class of 1986. We are unique and we will carry that uniqueness with us. After all, no one else can boast of being a member of the Class of '86, the laid back class with CLASS!

Specific senior traits show status in world

Chosen by their fellow seniors, the following pages contain the pictures of members of the Class of '86 who have left an impression on their classmates of possessing specific traits. Some of these traits are exhibited now while others are predictions for the future.

In any case, with tongue in cheek, the 1986 Horizon presents those members of this year's graduating class who have consented to share with the rest of the school, depictions of either their present or their future status in the world.

Aiming at continued excellence among the four high schools in the Tempe Union High School District, the Governing Board decided to seek continued approval of override money from the District's voters. They also put development among all personnel high on their list of priorities.

They asked Superintendent Dr. Parker to seek alternate methods of reimbursement of teachers rather than just education level and experience. They also took steps to improve communications between the schools and the voters and parents in the District.

Faculty 'lets hair down' to relax and laugh

Most faculty consider the job of educating the young, the job of teaching, to be a serious, demanding profession. It is not something to be laughed at. However, all seriousness with no levity, no laugh-time thrown in, can be deadly in a classroom.

Some faculty break up the seriousness business of study by joining their students in fantasy dressing on those occasions when it seems appropriate such as Halloween or dress-up days in connection with a game against a traditional rival. Such activity is not only fun for the students but it shows them that teachers are also human and proves that sometimes the best laughter is at yourself.

nglish teacher Maryeileen McKersie moves back to the Rennaiance with her personal Falstaff,Senior Mike Azzi.

TV teacher Jackie Smith pleads for students to have pity on that most maligned individual, the substitute.

Business Department Chairman Dr. Gary Hall "clowns around" a bit proving that businessmen really do have a sense of humor.

Government teacher and Tempe Mayor Harry Mitchell illustrates what kind of campaign pictures will insure that a candidate is not going to be elected.

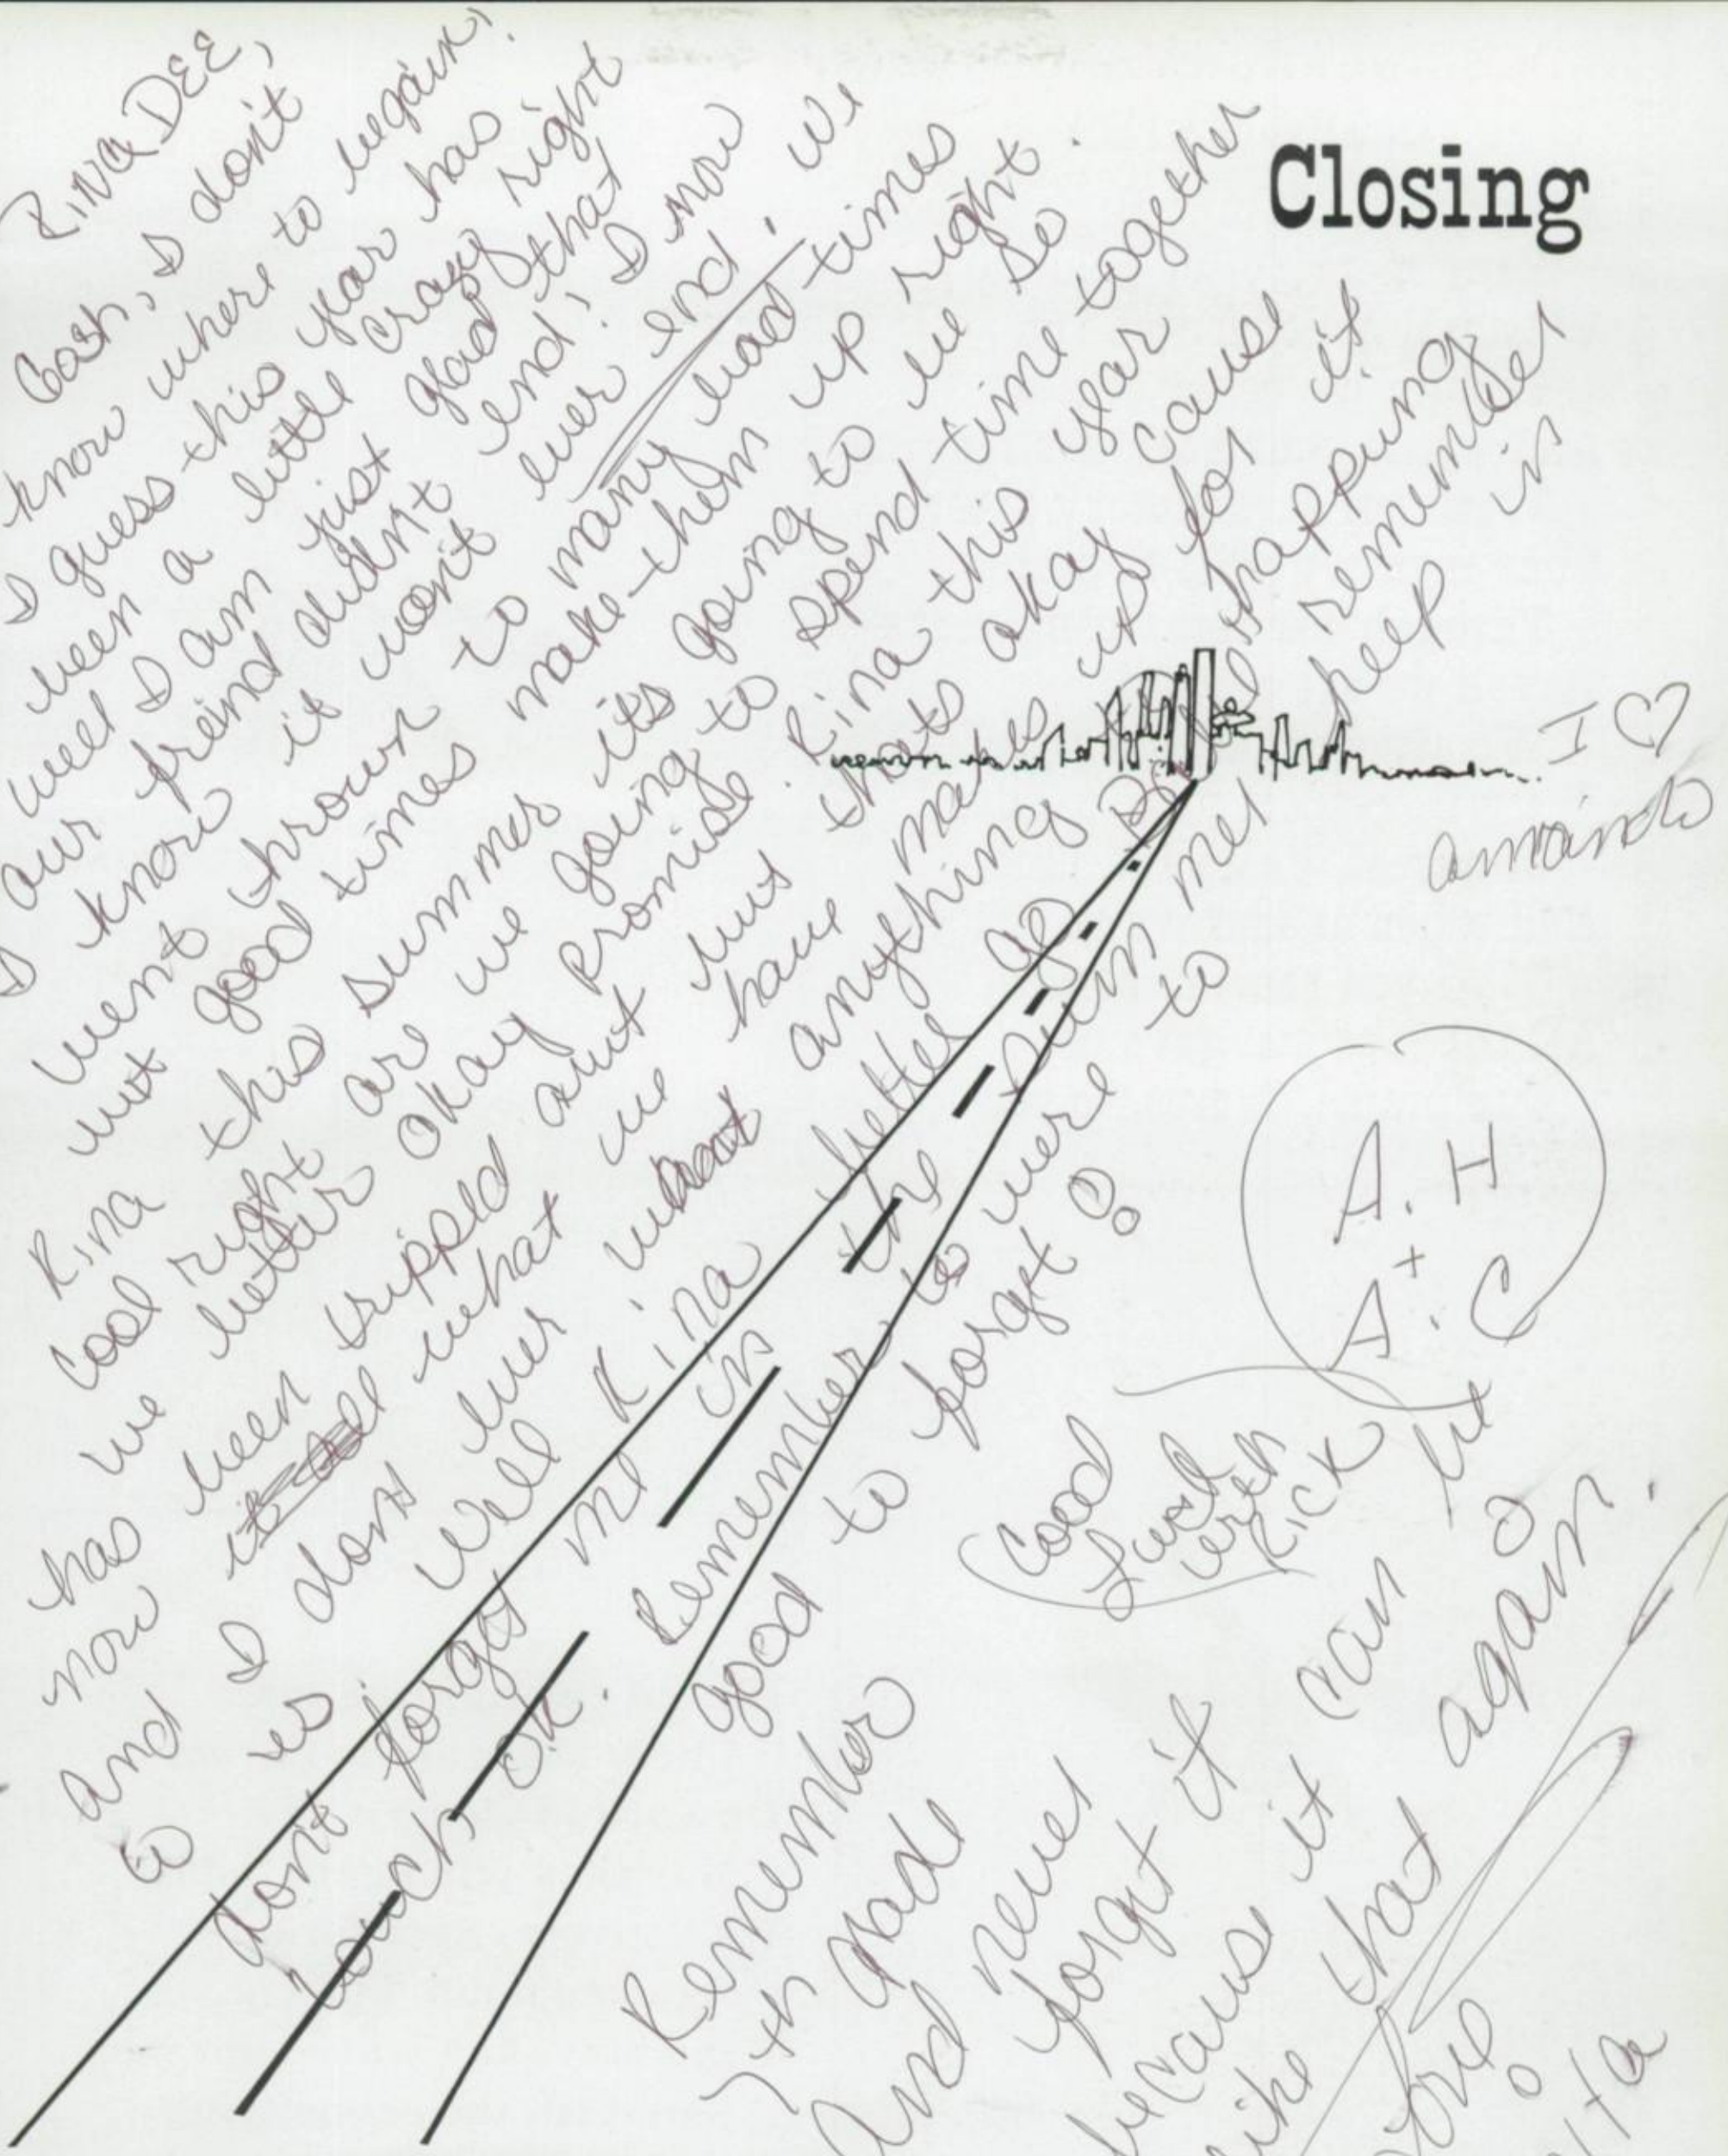
Science teacher Doug Taysom becomes a crotchety, "Mad Scientist" who expounds rather interesting theories about the universe to his amused classes.

Closing



Rina Dee,
Gosh, I don't know where to begin. I guess this year has been a little crazy right now and I am just glad that it's over and I mean we've been through a lot. I'm so glad that we are friends. I'm so sorry that I've been such a bad friend but I promise to make it up to you. Rina this summer it's going to be a good time. I promise we are going to spend time together and never let anything like this happen again. I ♡ you Rina
Good luck with 6th
Remember to forget
And never forget it because it was a good time
Love
Anita

ALMA MATER

All praise to Tempe High School
Your memory we hold dear
We shall never forget you
Though we be far or near
And while your halls are ringing
With our last victory cheer
Your memory will be sacred
Through our remaining years
To you we are devoted
We always shall be true
We will respect your banner
Of purest white and blue
And when at last we've left you
Will you remember too--
All the joys you gave us
Our praise, Tempe, to you

FIGHT SONG

Hail to our fighting team
Cheer them along the way
Onward to victory
May they win again today
We'll give a cheer for our fighting team
Long may they wave supreme
Shout till the echoes ring
For the glory of Tempe.

Tina,
I just met you this year but it seems like I've known you forever. You're a great friend. I don't know how I'll ever thank you for being there for me. You know how special you are to me. Thanks for helping me with problems. I'll always be here for you. Don't forget it!!
Love ya,
Jen

Good luck
w/ Rick!

Rina,
You are a good looking young lady. I wish you didn't have so many good things about you! But you're still my partner.
"Toland

TO MY "BRAT" "KING DOG"

I'M SO HAPPY WE GOT TO MEET THIS YEAR. YOU'VE MADE ME SO HAPPY & I HOPE I'VE DONE THE SAME FOR YOU. YOU KNOW I HOPE I'M WITH YOU FOREVER. I CARE FOR YOU MORE THAN I COULD EVER TELL YOU. THE TIME I SPEND WITH YOU IS VERY SPECIAL TO ME & I WOULD HURT IF WE LOST TIME FOR EACH OTHER, BUT THAT WILL NEVER HAPPEN WITH ME, I'LL ALWAYS HAVE TIME FOR YOU, & ONLY YOU. BEING WITH YOU MEANS THE WORLD TO ME & YOU'RE ALWAYS ON MY MIND. WE MIGHT GET MAD AT EACH OTHER SOME TIMES BUT THOSE TIMES ONLY MAKE THINGS BETTER FOR US, WHEN I TALK TO YOU I KNOW YOU LISTEN & I FEEL WE CAN TALK ABOUT ANYTHING & THAT MAKES ME FEEL SPECIAL. I HOPE IT NEVER ENDS FOR US. I LOVE YOU VERY MUCH!

LOVE,
RICK
